Reds Advancing Steadily In Caucasus Area Says Moscow Report

BATTLE CONTINUES AT STALINGRAD

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—Red army forces driving steadily forward in their campaign to reconquer the Caucasus and trap hundreds of thousands of Nazis in southern Russia smashed their way back into the "Rostov region," an official announcement by the Soviet information bureau said today.

Announcement of the capture of Savetnoye "in the Rostov region" was made shortly after the high command had issued a communique stating that its forces driving on the Caucasus gateway city of Rostov through the Middle Don region and the north Caucasus were advancing steadily despite stiffening Nazi resistance.

Seizure of Zavetnoye apparently was effected after the Russians penetrated the main Nazi defense line in the Lower Don sector.

Britain Approves Policy On France

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Highly authoritative sources in Washington today disclosed that the British government not only is in agreement with the United States on the handling of the political situation in North Africa, but also approved America's former policy toward Vichy France.

London reports that there is disagreement between the British and American governments over thi country's handling of the situation in French Africa, it was said on high authority, are completely without foundation.

London dispatches have repeatedly given the impression that the British government not only was at odds with the United States over the French African situation, but that it had opposed the America policy of maintaining diplomatic relations with Vichy France.

The London dispatches also have attacked the American government for not extending diplomatic recognition to Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Blockade Of Guadalcanal Holds Tight

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—American ground troops today are slashing toward the main Japanese lines on Guadalcanal while U. S. motor torpedo boats and planes are tightening the sea-air blockade around the embattled island to prevent supplies and reinforcements from reaching the enemy garrison.

Although some Navy men believe the Nipponese have been able to slip in small quantities of supplies to their isolated troops, they assert that 'round-the-clock patrols have severed the main Jap supply lines to the island.

See Blockade Success

Success of the blockade was demonstrated again on the night of Jan. 10-11 when torpedo boats intercepted an undisclosed number of Jap destroyers off Guadalcanal and drove them off after damaging two and possibly three of the warships.

Meanwhile, the Navy said that the U. S. aerial offensive continued against enemy bases in the central Solomons as ground forces pressed on against Jap lines in the jungles and mountains on the western end of Guadalcanal.

The Japanese have been unable to move in supplies and reinforcements on any but a minor scale for more than two months, leaving the enemy troops without proper food or ammunition. Plight of the Jap garrison is intimated by the fact that American forces have encountered little resistance for weeks.

Blackout Test Made Thursday

Surprise Test At 9:30 Last Night Regarded As Quite Successful

January's practice blackout, the first of the new year was held Thursday night in Lawrence county and this time the blackout was one of the most successful held. Learning from the mistakes of previous blackouts the Civilian Defense workers conducted themselves in an efficient manner and with some few exceptions the blackout was highly successful.

The yellow alert went on at nine o'clock, the blue at nine fifteen and at nine thirty the red alert, signalling an entire blackout came on. Almost immediately the streets were darkened, lights in homes and offices and buildings blinked out and for thirty minutes the city was a city of darkness.

Defense Corp Mobilized

In the control center a practice problem was worked out between eight and nine o'clock which meant that the control center was fully staffed and working when the yellow alert came on.

In the Joseph V. Cunningham Armory Company B, 3rd Regiment, Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps was mobilized, the Red Cross workers were in their places and over the city the air raid wardens, auxiliary police, fire wardens and the various demolition, gas, and road repair crews were at their stations.

L. B. Round, executive director of the Lawrence Council of Defense was pleased with the success of the blackout but said this, "in a few cases wardens have put on their arm bands when the blue alert went on. Arm bands should never be put on until the red signal has sounded and the sirens have announced the blackout."

Hospital Given Real Test In Last Night's Blackout

Baby Is Born And Operation Is Performed During Thursday Night's Test

Jameson Memorial hospital received a real test during last night's blackout, which incidentally was one of the best yet held here, when the hospital facilities designed for such an emergency functioned perfectly.

During the blackout an operation was performed, a baby was born, and several patients were admitted for treatment.

The baby was a son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McMullen of Lincoln avenue, Pittsburgh, which is a long way to come to be born during a blackout.

The hospital is equipped to take care of every emergency which might arise during an air raid, or a test such as last night, and the facilities proved adequate for such an event.

British Bombers Open Campaign On Nazi U-Boat Base In France

FOLLOWS ATTACKS MADE UPON RUHR

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A major effort by the Royal Air Force to combat the German submarine menace by direct action was cited today in connection with a heavy raid last night on Lorient, Nazi U-boat base on the French coast.

Switching from the usual night raids on Germany's industrial Ruhr which ebullient British pilots call "Happy Valley" because of the splendid results invariably obtained, the R. A. F. went after Lorient in force, blasting the port and installations with large-calibre bombs.

Two planes failed to return from the mission.

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

While most of the warfare took place in the air patrols of the British Eighth Army engaged in sorties against Axis positions in the Libyan coastal area in the vicinity of Buerat El Hsun and Wadi Zemzem south of Misurata.

Allied light bombers heavily attacked Axis transport concentrations and advanced airdromes. The Axis forces put up a strong air defense and in ensuing air battles at least eight enemy fighters were destroyed and many others were damaged, it was said.

Axis forward positions in Libya also were heavily bombed and machine-gunned and targets at the port of Tripoli and Misurata were blasted.

"Transports and encampments in the Tunisian and Tripolitanian coastal areas were machine-gunned," the communique said.

Fighter-bombers struck a new blow at the Axis airdrome on Lampedusa Island, between Tunisia and Sicily, and shot up a schooner off the eastern coast of Tunisia.

"Thirteen Allied pilots have not yet returned," the communique added.

GOV.-ELECT MARTIN WILL BE INAUGURATED TUESDAY AT NOON

inet; Brig. Gen. Charles H. Grahl, of Des Moines, Ia., president of the adjutant general's association of the United States; Republican state chairman M. Harvey Taylor; Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, of Baltimore, Md., commandant of the third service command; and Republican party leaders.

Will Speak Briefly

Martin, who retired February 27, 1942 as commander of the 28th ("Iron") division to become the Republican candidate for governor, will deliver a 17-minute address which will be broadcast over a state-wide network. The inaugural ceremony will last about 45 minutes and will be followed by a public reception for the new governor in the capitol rotunda. The inaugural ball in the evening will top off the day's activities.

As soon as Martin completes the oath of office, a light artillery detachment stationed near the rear of the capitol will fire a 19-gun salute. There will not be a parade.

Martin and retiring Governor James will be escorted from the mansion to the esplanade of the capitol, where an $1800 inaugural stand has been erected, by a mounted detachment of the state police and the mounted auxiliary police of the Dauphin county defense council.

Martin and Governor James are not expected to ride from the executive mansion to the stand in the time-honored horse-drawn Victoria that has served many other governors. The inaugural committee has been unable to locate the Victoria and an automobile will be used instead.

After the ceremonies are completed, Governor and Mrs. James have indicated they will return to their Plymouth home before taking a vacation.

MAJOR ATTACK AGAINST U-BOATS NOW DEVELOPING

yet of the concern felt over Adolf Hitlers U-boat campaign, which is admittedly reaching unprecedented savagery requiring "strongest manhandling."

The recent series of sustained raids upon the Ruhr were aimed at least partly against factories manufacturing essential submarine parts and turning out high grade submarine metals.

Damage to the submarine pens at Lorient obviously will interfere with the smooth operation of U-boat activity which to a large extent is dependent upon French Atlantic coast bases.

Recent speeches by First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander and others have stressed seriousness of the U-boat menace and Lord Woolton, food minister, has warned of possible bread rationing if the situation is not improved.

The Ruhr and Lorient raids therefore are in keeping with the government's campaign to hit German submarines from the cradle to the grave and prevent them from becoming an even graver menace.

LONDON, Jan. 15—RAF bombers skipped the usual night raids on the industrial Ruhr last night and attacked instead of the Nazi submarine base at Lorient, on the French coast.

The port was heavily bombed, said an air ministry announcement which reported that two bombers failed to return.

The night attacks by the British followed a strong offensive sweep late yesterday over northern France and Belgium by fighter planes of the United States army air force.

Nazi planes were destroyed and damaged, transport facilities blasted and enemy personnel shot up in the assault by the American airmen.

ROSEWELL, N. M., Jan. 15—An investigation was pressed today into the escape of three German prisoners of war at the Federal internment camp at Rosewell yesterday in which one fugitive was killed and another wounded as the men were captured.

Enemy Routed

The battle was brief and bitter, and when the enemy fled they left at least 116 dead on the field, the communique stated.

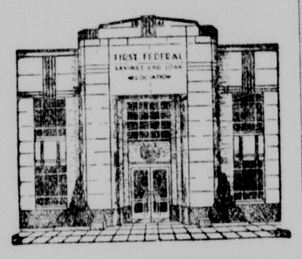

Meantime Allied aircraft of all types—fighters, attack planes, medium and heavy bombers—ranged over Japanese zones in the Lae-Sala-Maua area and swept east and west to new Britain and Timor in a series of unopposed attacks.

It was the second successive day bombers and fighters were over these areas and the effects of previous poundings was evident in the lack of Japanese resistance.

The communique made no mention of opposition of any sort.

RUSSIAN FORCES SMASH WAY TO 'ROSTOV REGION'

rison they are now using bombing planes to carry bread to the beleaguered army.)

While Soviet forces repeatedly smashed Nazi defense positions and quelled desperate counter-attacks on these two fronts Russian troops at Stalingrad continued strenuous efforts to lift the siege of the Volga metropolis.

Russian mechanized forces which yesterday scored a 26-mile advance through the Caucasus fought their way forward during the night and occupied several more inhabited localities, the high command's noon communique said.

"The Germans launched counter-attacks but all of them were beaten off with great enemy losses," the high command said.

On the Lower Don front the Russians overcame stern German resistance and repulsed all of the enemy counter-attacks. Several inhabited localities were seized in this drive.

Tanks In Battle

"On one sector," the high command said, "a large force of enemy tanks and infantry launched a counter-attack. We launched a counter-blow and threw the Germans back to their original positions, wiping out 800 . . . On another sector our forces dislodged the enemy from a strongly fortified locality, capturing supplies and a railroad station."

Soviet shock troop detachments at Stalingrad dislodged German units from fortifications and factories in the factory area. One street was cleared of Nazi troops and 56 blockhouses were destroyed.

Heavy engagements took place on the central front southwest of Velilki Luki where a German attack was repulsed after a fierce battle. The Russians killed 200 in this fight.

"On other sector our forces captured several strong points and took material and prisoners," the communique said.

The widest gain in the offensive to reconquer the Caucasus was made in the drive directly north of the Georgievsk area when Russian forces marched into Zotnikoskoye 26 miles beyond Zhuraskoe which was captured on Wednesday. This advance brought the Russians to within 45 miles of the Kalmuck region and put the Red army in position to strike westward toward Voroshilovsk.

In their push along the Rostov-Baku railway, one column of Soviet troops advanced 16 miles northwest of Mineralnye Vodi to take the district center of Suvorovskaya as well as the town of the same name attacking on the main Caucasian line.

INDICATION OF JAP WEAKNESS

THERE is reason for optimism in the rate at which Japanese warplanes are being knocked out of the skies in the Southwest Pacific. With more than one hundred enemy planes accounted for in three days, and scant American losses, a problem is being posed for Japan that the Nips will be hard put to answer. The problem is how to meet America in the air.

Japan can not meet America in the air because that nation is unable to marshal the raw materials and industrial capacity to make replacements in time. But if Japan could steal the materials in conquered countries and had the skilled technicians to make planes that were the equal of American planes in performance, Japan's prospect would still be hopeless because America is now approaching the peak of its air power. The Japs will never catch up.

Although it can be stated as a general proposition that a nation can not win a war with air power alone, neither will victory come to a nation without air power. America has the air power and Japan lacks it.

Thus the first requisite of American triumph over Japan is at hand. And increasing American advantage in the future of the Pacific struggle is to be seen in the new Lockheed Constellation, a plane so huge that it can carry a tank and its crew across an ocean and so fast that the swiftest Jap plane can not keep ahead of it.

A period is approaching in the Pacific in which Yankee fliers will go where they please in carrying a devastating offensive to the aggressor. This is not all of the battle in reducing Japan to impotence. But it is a great deal of it and the degree of American air superiority as it is developing in the Southwest Pacific is reassuring to the most optimistic.

WORK AND SICKNESS

As the pressure for war production increases more attention is directed to absenteeism and its causes in the industrial area of New York City.

An organization known as the Industrial Hygiene Foundation has completed a study for the year 1941 of fourteen big plants in which absences of more than eight days have been investigated. Sickness was found to be the prevailing cause of these absences taking a toll of an estimated eight workdays per worker yearly.

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director of the War Manpower Commission, has made a report based on a study of eight large plants with 40,000 men and women on their payrolls, the industries including radio equipment, food products, foundry castings, airplane accessories, air compressors and electric power.

Mrs. Rosenberg found that sickness was the chief cause of absenteeism, but also listed in her report personal reasons other than illness. This was indicated in pronounced increase in absences immediately following pay day. Failure to report for work in that period was especially heavy in some plants.

Both the Foundation and Mrs. Rosenberg feel that the situation can be improved.

BALTIC POSSIBILITY

Transfer of Marshal Timoshenko, assumed to be Russia's leading military genius, to the northern front at a time when the greatest effort of the red army is being made in the south may herald a large scale Russian drive to break through the Nazi lines at the point closest to Germany, the Baltic region.

Russia's effort in the south is plainly one of attrition, the object to surround as many axis units as possible and eliminate them from the war. That serves Russia's main purpose, which is to weaken Hitler's war machine so effectively that it will ultimately collapse.

There would be another incentive for a major Baltic drive. If Germany is running short of manpower, Russia may reason that a big drive in a supposedly winter-locked area might succeed in penetrating to Germany or to the borders of Germany. America and Britain are keeping the supplies flowing to far northern ports in Russia so that material may not be lacking for such a campaign.

An Allied invasion of Norway, synchronized with a Russian Baltic campaign, would put Hitler up against his gravest military crisis, because it would be forced upon him in the vicinity of Berlin, which he must protect at all cost.

Somewhere in the European war Hitler will be compelled to concentrate for an all-out defensive stand, which will weaken other sectors and permit a break-through to be made. The Baltic and Norway may figure in this final phase of the Hitlerian war.

THE SUN SHINES BRIGHT

Big league baseball bows to the inevitable and curtailed travel. Southern training trips are out. The widely advertised sun of Florida, Cuba and Catalina will shine this spring on no big leaguers as they limber up for the season's opener and the news reels.

Some clubs are looking for field houses with universities attached, others will be satisfied with gymnasiums if the oil holds out. Prospecting is limited in the East, by league agreement, to training sites north of the Potomac.

Chambers of Commerce throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania are discovering that their towns have the best snow removal facilities north of the Mason-Dixon line, with a high school diamond always available after a quick thaw. Harrisburg, Pa., has put in a bid for a Canadian team, extending its utmost in hospitality and guaranteeing an even temperature, or at least a range of not more than 80 degrees during the training season.

And the sun shines bright on ——— (censored for weather) and other resorts down below as the C. of C. or the home town Rotary will be delighted to assure league owners in quest of training quarters bereft of skit trails and sled dogs.

The consensus is that the baseball industry, as Director Eastman of ODT calls it, will survive without southern training and southern cooking. It may even survive with most of its young stars in uniform or 1-A. It will certainly survive if the club owners find the cash customers in their seats when next the umpires call, Play Ball!

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GOOD CHILD DIET NOT COSTLY

Children don't have to have wealthy parents in order to have good diets; neither does a high income always guarantee well-selected diets.

If you will examine the plan for choosing good diets on a low income, made available by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Labor, you will find that milk is the first item."

This plan calls for 6 small servings of lean meat, fish or poultry every week; a dish of cereal once or twice a day; bread in some way at every meal; a dessert once a day, when desired. Some of the cereals should be of whole grain. When white flour is used it should have been "enriched." You can buy "enriched" flour now at practically any good food store.

Using this low-cost plan for a family of two parents, a boy 14 and girl of 11, the marketing list for a week would look about as follows:

Milk, 22 quarts; potatoes and sweet potatoes, 18 pounds; dried beans, peas and nuts; 2 pounds; vitamin C-rich foods, such as tomatoes, citrus food, raw cabbage, 6½ pounds; leafy, green, yellow vegetables, 8¾ pounds; other vegetables and fruits, 8½ pounds; eggs, 15; lean meat, fish, poultry, 6¾ pounds; flour and cereals, 15½ pounds; fats, about 3 pounds; sugar, about 4 pounds—counting white, brown, maple sugars and syrups, molasses, jellies, preserves, and candies.

Of course you can't get a lot of variety when you hold to this low-cost plan. But you can introduce variety in your cooking and cook wisely and economically. Since so many of the vitamins and minerals are destroyed by careless cooking and drained down the kitchen sink, the Bureau of Home Economics offers to housewives and mothers the following rules:

"When you boil foods, raise the temperature to the boiling point as rapidly as possible. Use as little water as possible. Save the water in which vegetables have been cooked. Use it in making gravies, sauces and soups. Don't use soda in cooking green vegetables. Don't stir air into foods while they are cooking. Before putting cooked food through a sieve, let it cool. When short cooking methods are feasible, avoid long cooking processes, such as stewing. Start cooking frozen foods while they are still frozen. Serve raw frozen foods immediately after thawing. After food is cooked, serve it at once. Prepare chopped fruit and vegetable salads just before you serve them."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My eight-year-old boy sometimes comes in a bit bruised from fights with other boys. Should I forbid him to fight?

A. No; encourage him to stand up in self-defense with his fists. Dad or some more skilled person should teach this boy how to use his fists well. He also should learn never to start a quarrel or fight.

The World and the Mud Puddles

NATIVE INGENUITY

From many reports, an "industrial revolution" seems on its way to the fields of California. An immediate sweep toward greater machinization of that State's tremendous agricultural industry is apparent as a partial solution to the dire manpower shortage looming for the next year.

Under the spur of necessity, farmers themselves have designed and built succesful machines for topping, lifting and loading sugar beets in three separate areas. In one instance, in the Sacramento Valley, a complete beet harvester was built in a blacksmith shop from a junk heap of old cars and farm machines. This machine harvests at the rate of twenty-five tons a day. In other branches of farming as well, according to such authorities as Professor H. B. Walker head of the agricultural engineering division of the University of California, farmers are striving to offset the labor shortage by exercise of invention and ingenuity.

The immediate aim of this accelerated mechanical trend is solely to save and harvest crops to meet the United Nations' food needs. Its effect upon the complexities of post-war agriculture is in the realm of conjecture. Farm labor has always been a problem—both for the farmer and the men he hires. The seasonal nature of much farm work has of itself been a detriment to steady, settled employment. The economic inequality between the profits of agriculture and the profits of other major industries had rarely, if ever, permitted the farmer to match "city" wages and make a living.

Whether for good or ill for all concerned—and advances in productive inefficiency in the long run tend to make for good——agriculture apparently is entering upon a new machine age.

Four-year-old Doris was getting ready for bed. Suddenly she turned to her mother and asked: "Mother, are we going to move to-morrow?"

"Yes, dear, this the last night you will sleep here," she was told.

"Then," said wee Doris, kneeling beside her bed, "I'd better say goodbye to God now if we move to Boston in the morning."

If it is true that Japan has only two cuss words, she can never win. Should have had more sense than to start a war with such a handicap.

"Only one round," said Tommy.

It looks as if a lot of people don't want to wait three days after they decide to get married. It often gives some time to think and it also makes some change their minds.

SHORTENING THE FIGURE

"I am very tall and would like to make myself appear shorter. Can you give me any suggestions?——E. E.

Answer—My first word of advice to you is—do not slump your shoulders, thinking that you will in this manner decrease your height.

Stand erect, shoulders back, abdomen in, diaphragh raised, head up—to your full height.

Tall women who stand on one foot and droop their shoulders look awkward and do not attain the effect of shortness.

To camouflage your height, wear moderate heels, even for dress occasions. Shun spike heels entirely. Wear hats with low crowns and by all means avoid those dodads going up in the air.

A tunic dress or three-quarter coat, especially of the box type will decrease your apparent height and add to your apparent width. Do not wear the latter unless you are slender.

Short skirts (this season's length) will laso take a few inches from your height.

Question: Two of my close friends are about to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. What shall I give them? —Sally.

Answer: Gifts made of gold are prescribed for those celebrating their 50th—or golden—wedding anniversary. A gold pencil for the "groom" and a gold pin for the "bride" would be very appropriate. If real gold is too steep for your purpose, a gilt-edged picture frame or some similar article with a gold adornment would do very well.

"Mama, will I go to heaven when I die?"

"Yes, dear', said her mother, 'if you're good and always do what mama tells you.'

"'And will you go to heaven when you die, mama?'

"'Yes, of course.'

"'Mama, will Charlie Chaplin go to heaven when he dies?'

"'Oh, I guess so.'

"The little girl in her long white night gown clapped her hands and jumped up and down estatically.

"'Oh, mama,' she said, 'won't God laugh!'"

Teacher: "Why, Jimmie, is it true that your mother has diphtheria?"

Jimmie: "Yes, ma'am."

What's What At A Glance

Dies Committee Offers New Headaches
Linked Labor With Extreme Movements
Investigating Is A Passion With Him

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—With his congressional committee on investigation of un-American activities in our midst, Representative Martin Dies of Texas, the organization's chairman, starts off in Capitol Hill's recently inaugurated session as a new kind of headache to a goodly proportion of his fellow legislators and possibly to the executive administration also, though it hasn't paid much attention to him hitherto.

Dies initiated his quiz in pre-Axis days. Fascism was in its infancy. Nazism was only barely born. Nevertheless, the Texan had to have something to investigate, so he concentrated on Communism, then already available.

I never heard anyone question the disinterested honesty of Martin's motive, but certainly it was quite widely alleged that he was a crank on the subject of anti-American plotting among us. That is, few folk believe it was as prevalent as he represented it to be.

However, the Moscow regime was much less tolerantly regarded here at that stage of the game than it is today, since its lined up with us against Germany. Consequently Americans of only moderately liberal tendencies resented the Lone Star investigators habit of classing 'em with such extreme radicals as the Soviet folk.

Labor Burned Up

Incidentally, Martin's utterances quite generally group most union labor with the extremists.

That naturally made a lot of union laborites hot under the collar.

Well, it has to be admitted today that the Texan (perhaps accidentally) had anticipated Axis-ism. He remains anti-Communistic, though, and still associates unionism with the Red alignment.

Hence C. I. O. President Philip Murray's demand that the Dies committee be abolished in short order, "as a necessary war measure."

Phil's thesis is that the Dies program is "disruptive."

President Murray of C. I. O. is, as a matter of fact, perhaps not more radical, but more strenuous than President John L. Lewis of A. F. of L.

The two were pretty harmonious a couple or three years back. I watched 'em associating with one another very harmoniously. Now they verge on being mutually antagonistic.

They don't agree well on post-war plans, either.

Business is split, as well as labor.

As for political partisanship that's torn all to pieces.

You can't tell the various pieces apart, either.

Of course there are Democrats and Republicans. That's normal.

But a considerable crowd of Democrats in congress—if that's a test—are more Republican than they're Democratic. And quite a handful of Republicans—though not so large a contingent—are more Democratic than they're Republican.

Furthermore, the independents are decidedly more numerous than they're officially so classified.

Martin Dies' party's mission is one of investigation.

A Passion With Dies

Martin doesn't care whom he investigates. His whole purpose is to catch somebody engaged in something nefarious. He overdoes it somewhat. His passion for these inquests is recognized. It doesn't get the good faith of 'em suspected, but it does get their good judgment questioned.

He's about ready to make his report at present.

He may have some valuable disclosures to make, but the trouble is that all congress will be skeptical of 'em—he too readily believes everything that's told to him.

So far as his committee's concerned, it hasn't signified. He's been the entire committee.

Still, it has to be conceded that he spotted the Axis before anybody else recognized it.

Where he made his mistake was in overplaying it as a local manifestation.

The truth is that he's made out so convincing a case that scarcely anybody takes it seriously.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—William P. Witherow, board chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers: "When peace comes half the world will be angry, homeless and undernourished, if not starving and American will not hesitate. As she has been the arsenal of democracy in war she will be the good samaritan in peace."

WASHINGTON—Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior pleads for full use of small mines and industries: "Should the small business man go, we will all go."

NEW YORK—Elbert D. Thomas, senator from Utah suggests banishment to a 20th Century St. Helena for Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini: "The firing squad or the hangman's noose would only elevate these men to the stature of martyrdom in the eyes of their unregenerate followers."

DURHAM, N. C.—Wendell Willkie warns against suppressing free discussion even during war: "The time has never been when men did not seek to distort the utterances of their enemies for their own advantage. And what has won out in the long battle? Always the truth."

Hints On Etiquette

A young girl introduces her father to her boy friend's mother simply by saying, "Mrs. S., this is my father."

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

My friend, Rube Goldberg, who is also one of my favorite cartoonists, printed his New Year's resolution the other day.

Here it is:

"Everybody is talking about helping everybody else to be a better person in this dizzy old world.

"I hope this can be done though it seems like a pretty big job.

"In the meantime, I'm going to make a better person of myself so I'll at least know I'm contributing ONE GOOD GUY to a world that needs him."

Did Rube write that for me?

Did he write it for you?

I'll ask him the next time I see him.

I do know my face got pretty red when I read that resolution.

Here I go giving good advice to people, but what kind of a "guy" am I, come right down to it?

What have I done to make this world just a little bit better (and what have you done, if it's none of my business).

I go around criticising others. That fellow is an egg. That girl is selfish. Those people across the street don't bring their children up right.

Roosevelt is no good, some people say; Ickes is awful; Leon Henderson made a terrible mess out of the O.P.A.

But what have I done that's as good—or better?

What do I do besides squawking?

Supposing I were Roosevelt—could I run the war any better than he does?

Could I get more gas or oil for you than Ickes does?

Would you have any more sugar if I had been Leon Henderson?

Then why, for the love of Peter, don't I shut up and mind my own business? Why don't I leave my neighbors alone? Why don't I help instead of gossip?

Why don't I acquire some of the virtues that I see lacking in others?

Why don't I realize that people probably knock the stuffing out of me behind my back?

The other day Fred Allen gave a friend an incense burner and a mirror.

"What's the mirror for?" asked the friend.

"Well", said Fred, "you burn punk in an incense burner. I couldn't get any punk, so I bought you the mirror."

Flash—OPA spokesman says ersatz "victory sausage" soon will replace hot dog.

Flash—It will come with a built-in heartburn!

Flash—So what?

Evolution of the hot dog: Frankfurter, frankfurt, frank, victory sausage.

The frankfurter was invented by a butcher with a half pound of trimmings and a rubber glove.

He stuffed the fingers with meat, care and spice, amputated at the joint and concealed his crime in a roll.

As the police closed in he smothered it with mustard and said "they can't prove a thing without the body."

When they asked him what it was he said "it's a frankfurter". They said "that's a lot of bologna!" He said "that's exactly right—now will you try for the $64?"

The unknown butcher will be remembered so long as dyspepsia lasts. He created for us a brave new world of burps.

Thought for the day: No matter how thin you slice it—it's victory sausage.

TRAITS

These gifts are all within our reach;
And can be had as we desire:
The lilt of courage in our speech
A faith that doesn't quickly tire;

A quiet patience under stress,
A brave obedience to command,
Contentment with a little less;
For all who need a helping hand.

Some gifts there are requiring skill
And those are granted to the few,
But who for kindness has the will
Instinctively knows what to do.

And who for courage has the heart
And is to freedom consecrate
Will uncomplaining play his part
And patiently for victory wait.

There are no manufactured atrocity stories this time. Allied propagandists can't think of anything worse than the enemy admits.

Honor Wick For Safety Record

New Castle Man Operates Car Fifteen Years Without Accident

OTHER NEW CASTLE DRIVERS REWARDED

High tribute to a New Castle bus operator for an exceptional safety record was an outstanding feature of the annual safety banquets of Shenango Valley Transportation Company and the Youngstown Municipal Railway company in Youngstown yesterday noon and last evening.

Wick Honored

C. C. Wick, one of the veterans in the transportation service was the recipient of the honor. For an accomplishment rare in city transportation service, the operation of his vehicle through the busy streets of the city for fifteen years without an accident charged against his record he was called before the men and women banqueters last evening and presented with a beautiful wrist watch, suitably engraved to mark the occasion of the presentation.

The award was made by R. N. Graham, executive vice president of Shenango Valley Transportation Company, who warmly praised Mr. Wick for his accomplishment, declaring it seemed almost impossible for such a record to be made amid the heavy traffic of busy city streets.

The award to Mr. Wick was one of forty made to operators of New Castle, Sharon and Youngstown for records completed in the year 1942.

Fourteen of these were for fifteen years without an accident. The recipients in addition to Mr. Wick were: C. E. Beckman, G. C. Davis and C. F. Kinsell, of Sharon; A. J. Baughman, H. W. Butcher, P. J. Curtis, M. J. Lyden, Joseph Mitolo, D. E. McIntosh, W. R. Penman, Philip Reed, C. L. Seitz and William Timlin.

Award Gold Rings

Twelve other awards of gold rings were made to men who had set up ten-year accident free records and fourteen to men who had just completed five years free from accident. Many of the New Castle operators heretofore have won such awards.

The dinners were in honor of the operators of the three cities who had gone through either the first or the second half of 1942 without a chargeable accident.

All 28 of the operators in the New Castle service for six months or longer had made such records, so that, as has been the case for a number of years, Manager T. C. Moore was able to take a solid delegation of operators to each of the two meetings.

The New Castle men in whose honor the dinners were given are: M. E. Bare, D. H. Barge, R. J. Barron, Fred Corsi, C. E. Douglas, D. K. Frazier, J. E. Gorman, A. H. Heasley, M. J. Hunter, J. V. Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

TAKE A WALK

The little old car stays in the garage now. Perhaps we should take the opportunity for using our feet some.

Walking outdoors is good exercise. It is good for the young and old. It is safe for most everyone. Old people are helped by walking, if they do not hurry. They should take a walk and stop to chat with people they meet. They will get oxygen and exercise. They will get companionship. If they are agreeable they will meet agreeable people. Smiles are contagious.

Young people can be helped by walking briskly. The lungs usually hold some air after the usual amount is breathed out. This air is stagnant and not much good.

During a brisk walk the lungs are more active and this stale air is gotten rid of. A feeling of exhilaration comes on. The cheeks get pink. Deep breaths are enjoyed.

It is a good idea to pay attention to foot work. The feet should not be pounded down on the ground. The heel should touch the ground easily and without much sound. Then a rocking motion from heel to toe and a gentle lift for the next step.

A person's step should be so light that a footstep on the second floor cannot be heard downstairs. Pounding is hard on the feet and on the knees and on the nerves. It is hard on other people's nerves, too.

If a person is walking in the wet or mud the heel should not throw splashes on the back of the leg. The foot should be lifted so easily that there will be no splashing at all.

Keep the foot straight or toe in just a mite.

THREE SEMESTERS AT GROVE CITY COLLEGE

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Jan. 15.—The three-semester plan went into effect at Grove City college this year, with one period from January 21 to May 22; one from June 1 to September 18, and the third from September 27 to January 26, 1944. The college has held two semesters for many years, but the new program will enable students to telescope their four-year college career into three years. Students who prefer may continue on the four-year-two-semester plan.

Because of the changes in semester dates, several annual commencement events are eliminated, such as Ivy Day and Class Day. Student activities of the commencement season will also be dropped.

Milk Cows Meant For Slaughter To Be Bought By FSA

Maine-Through-Maryland Region Program Designed To Protect Milk Supplies In East

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 15 — The Maine-through-Maryland region of the farm security administration today is prepared to purchase all good milk cows and heifers which would otherwise be sold for slaughter.

J. H. Wood, regional director, said the program was designed to protect dwindling eastern milk supplies. The agency plans to re-sell the cows to farmers who can handle them.

"Our purpose is to maintain the vast milk production needed for civilian consumption, the armed services and lend-lease aid," Wood explained. "The government expects to make no profit from these transactions. We are determined that henceforth no good milk-producing cow will go to the butcher."

The plan will be put into effect immediately in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachussetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania, he said.

In India, "aircraft carrier" refers to the 60-foot salvage trucks dispatched to recover bombers and fighter planes that have crashed.

Slaying Witness

Witness to the slaying of Carlo Tresca, noted anti-fascist newspaper editor, was his friend Giuseppe Callabi. He was walking along beside Tresca when an unknown gunman shot him down in New York City. Calabbi told police that the assassin approached and shot the editor from behind. A .38 calibre gun, found near the scene of the crime, is being tested for fingerprints.

Your Federal Income Tax

WHEN AND WHERE TO FILE RETURNS

For individuals generally, income tax returns for the calendar year 1942 must be filed not later than midnight of March 15, 1943, and they should be filed as soon as possible after January 1, 1943. Some individuals, operating businesses, keep their books on a fiscal year basis, that is, for a 12-month period ending on the last day of some month other than December, and returns of such individuals are due on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of their fiscal year.

Individuals who have been outside the Americas continually for a period of 90 days or more are allowed an extension of time amounting to the length of the residence outside the Americas, plus 90 days (but not beyond the 15th day of the third month following the close of the present war), in which to file their income tax return. Also, an individual who is a prisoner of war or otherwise detained by an enemy country or by enemy forces, or who is in the military or naval forces of the United States, is allowed until the 15th day of the third month following the month in which such status ceases or the present war is terminated, whichever is earlier, to file return and make payment of tax.

In unusual circumstances a resident individual may be granted an extension within which to file a return upon application to the collector of internal revenue for his district, if appropriate reasons are shown. If the extension is granted, the taxpayer is subject to an interest charge of 6 per cent per annum on the amount of tax payable, from the original due date until paid.

Returns must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer maintains his legal residence or place of business. Taxpayers with no legal residence or place of business should mail their returns to the collector of internal revenue, Baltimore, Md. If returns are filed by mail, they should be mailed in ample time to reach the collector's office under ordinary handling of the mails on or before the due date.

More Navy Fliers At Westminster

Newest Group Works Under Different Program, Now Called War Training Service

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 15.—Westminster college's campus again takes on the aspect of a military training center with the arrival this week of the latest group of fliers for basic training at the college.

Although Westminster has already trained 60 prospective glider, service and transport pilots since such training was started, the newest group will begin work under a new and slightly different program. Past trainees have received their instruction under the civilian pilot training program and have been known as CPT fliers, but under recent revisions, the name has been changed to the War Training Service.

Under the new set-up, certain colleges have been selected to train army pilots while others have been chosen to train navy fliers. Westminster college has been designated as one of the Western Pennsylvania training centers for the navy, and the 20 fliers who arrived here on Wednesday, and the 10 who are scheduled to arrive tonight, are all Naval Cadets.

Unlike all previous programs, fliers now stationed here are all on active duty and will be periodically inspected by naval officers.

Dr. R. F. Galbreath and Dean Maxwell R. Kelso have received word from naval officials in this district's headquarters in Philadelphia that the Navy has been very well satisfied with the training given at Westminster to previous groups of fliers sent here for basic training.

In spite of inclement weather and bad flying conditions, the latest group to train here as well as all other previous groups, completed their entire course well ahead of schedule and have gone on to advanced training at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Library Branches Share Burden Of Gasless Evenings

The three branches of the New Castle free public library are helping to solve the problem of residents of what to do with their evenings now that they can't drive to a movie or a party.

Most of the city population are within a mile—a walkable distance—of one of the branches, or the main library, and many library borrowers stop in going to or from work if they pass by or near one of them.

Mahoningtown branch is located at 4 East Madison avenue and is open from 12:30 to 9 Mondays and Thursdays.

South Side branch is located at 1212 South Mill street and is open Wednesdays from 12:30 to 9 and on Saturdays from from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

East Side branch, open Tuesdays and Fridays from 12:30 to 9, is located at 1401 East Washington street.

Each borrower may take out four books on his card at one time to read until he can conveniently make another trip or until the books are due in two weeks.

Babson Discusses Stock And Mutual Insurance Companies

Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

BABSON PARK, Fla., Jan. 15.—Since my recent article on Insurance Stocks, many letters have come to me asking why I did not recommend some "mutual" stocks as investments. Well, the simple answer is that mutual companies have no stocks outstanding. This not only means that you cannot buy into a mutual company, but also that the mutuals have no stock equities to give super-security to policyholders above their surpluses. There also have been other questions which lead me now to discuss the entire "ins-and-outs" of mutuals vs stock companies.

BABSON

Insurance Premiums Compared

Let me first say that I believe in all co-operative enterprises if they are headed for the right ultimate goal. But for co-operative groups to keep from becoming inert bureaucracies, they must now have competition from privately owned companies. This is especially true of mutual insurance companies which theoretically should provide lower rates than stock companies.

As a practical matter, if you get a lower rate from a mutual company, it may be due either to your forfeiting the security of the stockholder's equity or to the fact that the compensation from stock companies prevents the mutuals from going to sleep. Eliminate the stock companies and you'll see the mutual premiums go up like a rocket through inefficiency and indifference.

Public Benefactors

There, however, are other far more important reasons why I now place all my insurance—life, fire and casualty—in stock companies. The stock companies are alive and vital groups, actuated by the free enterprice which has made America a better place to live than Europe. Let me illustrate.

Stock life insurance companies are not only in lowering premium rates, but they are interested in the more important needs of lengthening the lives and bettering the health of their policyholders. The profits of the stockholders of such companies increase in proportion to the longer you live. The stockholders and officers of a stock company have a uper-urge that the mutuals lack.

Why Mutuals Lack the Super-Urge

The same principle is true of stock fire and casualty companies. The stockholds of such insurance companies are interested in reducing the number of fires, accidents and defalcations. They should be credited for the laws which today require fire-proof construction, municipal fire departments, sufficient hydrants, fire alarm signal boxes including safety appliances and other regulations to protect your property and lives. It was the super-urge of the stockholders which got the needed legislation passed.

But the above is not all. These stockholders know that their insurance business increases as new building increases. Hence, they are behind every moment to make it easier for you to build more and better homes. These stock companies even loan their money to policyholders to encourage building. How much do mutual companies bother with such mortgages? Some mutuals even limit the granting of insurance to factories and corporations.

Mr. Babson's Personal Investments

The National Board of Underwriters and such companies as the Gamewell Fire Alarm company owe their birth to the stock fire insurance companies. It has been the super-urge of stockholders in fire insurance and casualty companies which has supplied the equipment to provide your community with fire alarms, fire pumpers, ladder trucks, good hose and needed legislation for protecting your lives, homes and property.

For these reasons I look forward to far greater co-operation between all stock life insurance, fire insurance and casualty companies and the organizations which are lengthening life and are protecting homes, property and employment. Hence, in such as these corporations, I invest most of my own money knowing that they are working to make a better, safer and happier nation.

Advantages of An Investment Trust

One more thought: The stock, life, fire and casualty companies provide an excellent means for small investors to get diversification. These companies own large amounts of well-selected stocks, bonds and mortgages. Many of these companies could pay dividends if they did no insurance business. The income received on their investments now goes far toward paying such dividends. This is one reason why I am tremendously interested in investment advisory work. This dovetails into the insurance business 100 per cent.

Some pessimists decry insurance stocks because they can claim that the government will some day take over the insurance business. If so, this might be hard luck for the mutual companies; but the stock companies have little to fear. As the government enters the lower bracket ranks, new fields with even a brighter future will open up for the stock companies. Private insurance is a fundamental industry. It has always existed in some form and always will exist in some form. Furthermore, as long as the stock companies keep on their toes and do the right thing, they should always lead the mutual companies.

PRACTICE SAFETY FIRST IN DRIVING

Police Recommend Rules Based On Research On Driving Hazards

Rules, based on Wartime research by the National Safety Council's Commtitee on Winter Driving Hazards, are recommended by police to minimize problems and conserve vehicles when dangerous weather prevails.

Winter Rules

If you must drive this winter. Fill your vehicle to comfortable capacity and go prepared to get through, regardless of snow, ice, cold and longer hours of darkness. Share your care whenever possible, but drive extra caretul.

Speeds must be reduced on snow or ice. It's now unpatriotic to drive over 35 m. p. h. at any time, but on packed-snow or ice speed should be reduced. Adjust speed to conditions. Avoidable traffic tie-ups and accidents will not be tolerated. Leave vehicle in garage if unprepared during severe conditions; you might have accident or get stalled and tie up essential traffic vtial to war work.

Even new tire treads often spin and slide on snow or ice without chains. It takes 3 to 11 times normal distance to stop on snow or ice with good tires. Anti-skid chains reduce braking distance 40 to 50 per cent on snow or ice, and without them you can't get up or down slippery hills. Tires that spin on snow, dig to pavement, waste gas and wear tires.

Skids on snow or ice frequently start by unequalized brakes. Have yours checked. The practice of letting air out of tires to prevent skidding is a fallacy. It gives very little added traction and increases instability and skidding on curves. It also damages tires, making them very susceptible to blowouts.

Windshield wipers or defrosters that don't work cause winter accidents. Make sure yours are in good working order. You must be able to see a hazard to avoid it, as well as able to stop-and-go, regardless of weather conditions.

Faulty headlights lead to winter accidents. Replace dead bulbs immediately, and have headlights checked for focus and direction. Use "traffic beam" in city or when passing other cars in country.

Sudden slowdowns and stops are a primary cause of skid wrecks. Slow down gradually in gear and "pump" brakes on-off-and-on to a point of impending skid on snow or ice. Keep wheels from locking particularly if not safeguarded by anti-skid chains. Maintain plenty of stopping space between your car and the car in front. Don't try to pass on hills or curves. This is risky enough on dry pavements. It's foolhardy on snow and ice.

Beware of odorless carbon monoxide gas. Don't stay in closed garage when warming up engine.

Remember: Accidents and delays help the Axis, and "an ounce of Pre-caution is worth a pound of cure."

Hollywood Glamour Road Leads Actress To Jail

By FRANK NEILL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—The glamour road to Hollywood success detoured abruptly into a dark jail cell today for Frances Farmer—and the once-svelte movie queen's fade-out was the most dramatic role she had ever played

Her exit cue from filmdom's glittery limelight was a 180-day jail sentence for violation of a drunk driving probation.

But it was only the final act of 48 hours of unrehearsed off-screen drama which included a fight with her hair dresser, another battle in a Hollywood night club and a hotel room strip-tease before an audience of police officers who traded a warrant for the performance.

FRANCES FARMER

Disheveled and Unkempt

Appearing in court disheveled and unkempt, the 29-year-old actress was the complete antithesis of a big time stage and screen star.

Her blonde hair was scraggly. Her eyes were red and swollen. The famous Frances Farmer figure was camouflaged by a soiled, mussy sweater suit.

And the voice—which had helped her climb to stage and screen fame from the University of Washington campus only six years ago—was shrill and bitter with confused emotion as she faced Police Judge Marshal Hickson.

Miss Farmer made the personal appearance after failing to pay the final installment on a $250 fine for drunk driving in a dim-out zone last October. She additionally had broken a parole which stipulated she would refrain from liquor for two years.

"Have you been drinking?" Judge Hickson asked.

"Yes! All the liquor I could lay my hands on! Benzedrine and everything else—"

Sentenced To Jail

Outshouting the raging actress, the judge yelled: "I sentence you to 180 days in jail!"

"That's fine! That's just fine," retorted Miss Farmer. As officers started leading her away, she screamed, and kicked several of them in the shins. Shouting, she clung to a chair, lashing out at the policemen. The chair upset, spilling her to the floor.

Officers manager to strap her arms with a heavy belt. They removed her shoes to soften the kicks. And as they carried her forcibly from the court, the actress shrieked:

"Have you ever had a broken heart? Have you?"

She was divorced last June from Actor Lief Erikson, and more recently had been reported engaged to a Hollywood lawyer who since has married a society woman.

At the county jail booking office, Miss Farmer regained her composure. In dramatic fashion, disregarding her disheveled appearance, she intoned:

"I'm an actress..." Then snapped—"You stupid dolt, I'm a vagrant."

Her performance turned to sprightliness when a police matron, Mrs. Vada Russell, announced that her fingerprints would be taken.

"Lead on, MacDuff," she shouted with Shakespearean gestures.

An assistant jail keeper asked her why she "couldn't be nice?"

"Who wrote your script?" snapped the actress, "and where did you get that potbelly?"

"I got it from eating—not drinking," he told her, playing the role straight and without a smile.

Charges Against Flynn's Friend

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—Fred McEvoy, British sportsman at whose home actor Errol Flynn allegedly attacked a 17-year-old girl, today pleaded not guilty in municipal court to a charge of assault and battery.

The battery complaint against McEvoy was filed by Robert Makim of Beverly Hills, Cal., charging that McEvoy bashed him in the eye during a New Year's eve setto at the fashionable West Side Tennis club.

Tax Legislation Will Not Affect 1942 Obligation

Public Is Warned Returns Must Be Filed As Usual On Next March 15

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Sen. George (D) Ga., and Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., chairmen of the senate finance and house ways and means committees respectively, today issued a statement warning the public that no legislation is contemplated which would relieve the American taxpayers obligation from filing 1942 return as usual on next March 15.

Their statement reads:

"The committee having to do with tax legislation have been advised that reports are coming from over the country to the effect that a change will be made in the tax law which would preclude the necessity of filing 1942 returns due on March 15, 1943.

"This assumption on the part of any taxpayer that he will not be required to file his 1942 return on March 15, 1943, is erroneous. In all cases, that return will have to be filed and at least the first quarter payments will have to be paid.

"These filing early returns will be in no danger of being penalized. Whatever decision may be made as to future tax legislation will not affect the taxpayer's obligation to file his 1942 return as usual and pay his tax."

Nomination Of Edward J. Flynn Will Be Probed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The senate foreign relations committee today voted unanimously to hold a public investigation of charges made against the nomination of Edward J. Flynn, retiring chairman of the Democratic national committee, to be President Roosevelt's minister to Australia.

The hearing probably will begin next Wednesday or Thursday.

Democratic senate leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky made the suggestion for the public hearing. The committee decided to act as a whole instead of delegating the inquiry to a subcommittee which is the custom.

EARTH TREMOR FELT IN NEW ENGLAND; No DAMAGE IS CAUSED

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 15.—Residents of New England today reported some concern but no damage from an earth tremor which was felt in six states.

She shocks, separated by ten seconds, at first were thought to be a single temblor but detailed examination of seismographic records disclosed a dual quake with centers of disturbance separated by almost 150 miles.

The first quake was recorded in the Harvard observatory shortly after 5:30 p. m. with its center somewhere off Cape Ann, Mass., the second came ten seconds later.

HENS MUST EAT CALCIUM FOR SOUND EGG SHELLS

If hens are to produce eggs with sound shells, they must consume enough calcium-bearing raw materials. This calcium should be in a form which can be converted readily by the body into egg shells.

Too often the hoppers which contain the raw material for egg shells are too small, and, as a result the supply is quickly exhausted while replenishment may be neglected, or little and dust accumulates on the surface. Sometimes the hoppers are located in a poorly lighted area of the pen. Then, too, hens like the coarser particles and fail to eat enough if the surface is covered with powdery shell-making materials.

The supply should be replenished and stirred frequently. Occasionally, small quantities can be scattered on the mash. Some poultrymen have fed additional shell materials, such as oyster shell or crushed limestone, in the scratch mixture at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 pounds of grain.

Sometimes poor shell structure is due to inadequate intake of vitaman D. This vitamin helps the body assimilate calcium and so has a part to play in shell structure as well. Extra quantities of vitamin D can be supplied through the regular dry mash and in daily supplies of wet mashes. When feeding oils are used, they also can be mixed with scratch grain that is hopper-fed.

There are times when the shell gland becomes fatigued. This occurs principally, however, with older fowls completing their year's production cycle. Occasionally, trouble is experienced in a flock suffering from chronic coccidiosis. Sound management then consists of eliminating the cause of the disturbance.

CLEAN MILK PRODUCTION AIDED BY COW GROOMING

Clean milk is produced by cows that are carefully groomed. Part of the care of the cow includes clipping.

In clipping cows, the hair should be clipped against the grain. The flanks, the belly, and the udder should be clipped, starting at the tail, setting and working diagonally down across to a point extending about a foot in front of the udder.

If the clippers are kept clean and frequently oiled, considerable time will be saved. When using clippers many farmers frequently immerce the blade in an oil-and-kerosene mixture.

Because the clipped areas contain no long hairs, they can be quite easily brushed and kept clean. Use a chlorine solution for washing the flanks, bellies, and udders. Each cow can be washed just before she is to be milked.

Through carelessness, disease may be introduced into herds by use of clippers previously used on infected herds and not properly sterilized. This emphasizes the need of careful sterilization of the clippers, cords, and hands and shoes of the man who does the clipping. Especially in the case of custom clipping, the herd owner should be sure that no infectious disease is being brought into his herd.

IMPROPER TREE FELLING WASTES VALUABLE TIMBER

Much valuable timber is wasted because of butt-splitting caused by improper felling of standing trees. Such loss can be almost entirely avoided if the job of notching and sawing is done correctly.

Losses are most frequent in large straight-grained and high quality trees. War industries need this timber most of all. Care and correct methods will prevent splitting and thus save these fine logs for sale by their owners and for use in wartime projects.

Leaning trees are most susceptible to splitting, because of the heavy strain on the wood fibers near the base of the tree. In felling such a tree, it must be held up as long as possible by keeping enough wood on the tension side of the tree until the moment it commences to fall. There are several methods of getting leaning trees down without splitting. One of the best ways to proceed is as follows:

Make a liberal-sized notch in the tree at right angles, or nearly so, to the direction of lean. Begin sawing at the edge of the notch, on the compression side, that is, on the side where the saw will eventually pinch. Continue the felling cut, placing one or two thin wedges on the underside to keep the weight of the tree off the saw blade. A triangular section of wood always remains, the base of this triangle being on the side away from the lean or where tension is greatest. Cut through the heart of the tree. When two to four inches of wood on the tension side remains uncut and the tree is about ready to start falling, take out the saw by removing one of the handles. Drive in the wedges until the top of the tree is swung far enough to start the fall.

ALL-AMERICA VEGETABLE SELECTIONS ANNOUNCED

Another All-American team has been selected. This time a group of vegetables has been honored.

Each year new vegetable varieties, grown in 15 trial grounds in different sections of America, are chosen for All-America selections by the American Seed Trade Association under the direction of W. Ray Hastings, chairman. The new selections are chosen for their vitamin and mineral content, for marketing, canning, freezing and appetite appeal.

Selections made for 1943 are the following: Cucumber Marketer, Pole Snap Bean Potomac, Tomato Jubilee, Pepper Early Pimento and Bush Lima Bean Cangreen.

Cucumber Marketer is described as being ideal for home gardens, early markets and shipping. It is said to be very smooth, with exceptionally uniform dark-green color down to the blossom end, and is very prolific on a vigorous vine. It is a white spine type.

Pole Snap Bean Potomac is similar to Kentucky Wonder but has "streamlined, long, slender, practically round meaty pods of exceptional tenderness". It is absolutely stringless at all stages of growth, according to the report.

Tomato Jubilee is a new orange-yellow tomato. The fruits are orange-yellow, globular, weigh about six ounces, and relatively free from cracking. The interior is thick-walled with few seeds. The flavor is somewhat mild but not flat.

Pepper Early Pimento is said to produce mature fruits one to two weeks ahead of Perfection Pimento, a bit smaller and thinner walled, narrower across the shoulders and longer cone-shaped. The flesh is thick, very sweet and delicious.

Bush Lima Bean Cangreen is a green-seeded Henderson bush lima variety. The seed is reported to retain its fresh green color after being cooked and canned. It has thrifty, vigorous, bushy growth and high production of pods.

Martin Can Find No Inaugural Topper

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 15.—Pennsylvania's incoming governor is in need of a top hat for his inauguration Tuesday.

"You can't find a top hat anywhere," complained governor-elect Edward Martin.

Only new governor to ignore the old custom that a top hat must be worn was Gifford Pinchot. He wore a fedora.

But we can't preserve State rights if we don't preserve State obligations and quit depending on Washington.

ORDER POLICE CARS STOP SPLASHING WOMEN'S STOCKINGS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Because two pretty young women, whose stockings were splashed with slush by a passing police squad car, complained bitterly to Mayor John Hart of suburban Blue Island, the following order was issued today to all squad car rivers:

"Travel slowly past street intersections to avoid splashing water on women's hose. Silk stockings are hard to get today. They wear out faster the more they are washed, and you'll be contributing to the war effort by following this order."

Millions of cars, trucks and busses may soon be off the road because of the lack of automobile mechanics.

The phrase, "innocuous desuetude," was used by President Grover Cleveland in a message delivered to Congress on March 1, 1886. It has since taken its place in the American political dictionary. It means obeyance or harmless disuse.

"Ye" used for "the" is the Anglo-Saxon or Old English method of writing "the," and it should be pronounced "the," not as if it was spelled "yee."

State-Wide Blackout Climaxes Anti-Invasion Program

Maneuvers Are Most Successful

"Crucial Stage" In "Attack" Develops At 9:30 On Thursday Night

STATE'S EFFORT LARGEST AS YET

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 15—Military and civil authorities today hailed as successful the state-wide anti-invasion maneuver which was climaxed last night by a mock Nazi air attack on the state capital.

The "crucial stage" in the maneuver, which was designed to test the state's defense system, came at 9:30 p.m. when air raid sirens wailed throughout the state for a total blackout. A "communique" from the state control center said the situation was "under control" at 10 p.m. when the blackout ended.

Simulated Communique

The state control center, in a simulated official "communique," emphasized that all the "enemy action" was fictitious but that local defense forces actually participated in the maneuver, believed to represent the largest ever attempted in the nation.

The "communique" stated that "some persons were killed and some wounded" as enemy bombs were dropped in the general area of a large munitions factory while "wholesale sabotage" was attempted on another plant.

Gov. Arthur H. James, acting as commander-in-chief of the state's armed forces, called upon the regular army for aid in a "general situation" in which "the enemy" was being combatted by the State Motor police and the State Guard. Troops were sent by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckford, commanding general of the Third Service Command.

Most Extensive

The "Luftwaffe" was fought off by the combined forces while defense councils, the Red Cross, the governor's emergency disaster committee, the state evacuation authority and the civil air patrol aided in maintaining civilian activities.

It was pointed out that although the "attack" on the Harrisburg area marked the only actual "enemy contact" in the raid, the remainder of the state was fully mobilized and prepared for action.

The blackout, the first of the year, was the sixth statewide drill staged in Pennsylvania. There were also three daylight alerts last year.

At the end of the maneuver, Governor James thanked General Reckord for his cooperation in dispatching troops. "The maneuver further cements the close liaison already existing between the civilian, police and military agencies and forces of the commonwealth and the U.S. army establishment under your control," he said.

General Reckord stated that "the participation of troops of my command seems to have been helpful in making clear to the civilian population the readiness of our army and the extent of its training for emergencies." In congratulating the state and its forces, he declared that "the effort to attain an air of genuineness in the state-wide mobilization has apparently attained a high degree of success."

Basketball has more players and fans than any other sport.

It is a healthful and exciting game.

Basketball is a strenuous activity.

Its demand on heart, wind and stamina is great.

No boy or girl not physically fit should play basketball.

The playing field is small and the action rapid.

There is much opportunity for bumps and falls.

Players frequently trip and slide on the hard surfaced floor.

Skin is scraped off and "floor burns" are common and painful.

Scraped portions should be immediately cleansed and covered.

High shoes should be worn to protect against turned ankles.

Tender feet soon blister in basketball and need attention.

Announce Quotas On Farm Machinery

Lawrence County War Board Has Received Quota On Various Types Of Machinery

State and county quotas of farm machinery and equipment to be distributed by county farm rationing committees under Rationing Order C have been announced by the State War Board of the United States Department of Agriculture. In announcing the quotas, Chairman James E. Walker, of the State War Board, said that in view of the limited amount of machinery available for 1943, it will be the responsibility of county committees to see to it that each machine and each piece of equipment is placed where it will do the greatest amount of good in producing crops for war.

The over-all yardstick in rationing any machinery will be, "Will It Help Win the War?" The rationing program, Mr. Walker explained, was put into operation "in order to insure a fair distribution of available machinery in channels where it will do the most good in wartime agricultural production." Farm machinery repair parts are not being rationed.

The Quota for Lawrence county is quite low in most cases, and farms will have to show dire need and that they are really engaged in the war effort, Chairman Dorris L. Fulkman of the Lawrence County USDA War Board states.

Vitale Company Receives Army And Navy 'E'

sentation was months of patriotic devotion to duty by soldiers of the production line, a record of turning out an eight months' contract in three months, a record that bespeaks more than mere words what New Castle workers are doing to further the war effort.

Two Presentations

Two presentations were made, one of the burgee and one of the pins to be worn by the employes of the Vitale Fireworks Company. The burgee was presented by Lieutenant-Commander J. N. Kelty whose father was once a resident of New Castle. Said Commander Kelty in part,

Tonight it is my pleasure to return to New Castle to serve in a dual capacity. First as the representative of the Navy Department and secondly to return to the home city of my father. As I speak to you, my mind is divided into two parts. The first goes to the boys on the fighting fronts throughout the world. These men in the army and navy come from all America. Yes, many of the men in the field today are from this very town. Some are husbands, brothers, close relatives and sweethearts. To these galant fighters and defenders of our great nation we owe a debt of gratitude. My second thought is with the faithful army of workers on the home front. Workers in the Vital plants, that must produce, produce and produce the material for those boys to use. How important is this second army—the army of war workers.

Without it we cannot win—with it we can and we will in the shortest possible time defeat our enemies and again enjoy the peace upon which this great nation was founded.

Record Proves Worth

A look at the record proves your sincerity and you may well be proud. Your company with a small handful of workers just one year ago converted to war work. Since that time you have grown in numbers tenfold. But most important of all you hold a record of filling an eight month contract in three short months. Yes . . . five months ahead of schedule. No work stoppages testify to your admirable spirit of "all-out" cooperation. Accident prevention, health and plant protection statistics indicate Vitale's undiminishing and vigilant effort in producing its signal cartridges for the navy. Unique in quality, those red and white and green cartridges have passed our rigid and exacting tests with excellence. The battle of production, which lies at the core of this world struggle, is being won because there are men and women like you in this and in all the great war plants of our production sectors today, working for America. More than keeping faith with our fighting forces overseas, you are in truth, their comrades-in-arms. May the flares of your Very's cartridges light up the whole earth to victory, to peace and to a great new world for all of us!

The Army-Navy "E" award, as you know, is extremely hard to win. It is harder to keep. It designates all of you as members of a championship production team. But, as any champion will tell you, you have to work harder to stay there than to get there.

Keep Up Work

I am confident that you will not only keep up the good work but even better your past achievement, and that at the end of six months there will be a service star emblazoned on your pennant to prove it. You will not fail, because you know your job is your battle station, and at this station you are as important to your country as any fighter in the front lines. You will not fail because you know that upon your shoulders, and upon the shoulders of millions of other patriotic hardworking men and women like you, rests a great part of the burden of American victory.

And now, Mr. Anthony Vitale, it gives me great pleasure as the representative of the Navy Department, to present you and your entire organization with the Army-Navy "E" pennant.

Anthony Vitale Accepts

Anthony Vitale, president of the company, accepted the burgee in a few words. Said he: "It is with deepest appreciation that I accept this award from the government. It is the happiest day of my life for it is a tangible expression of appreciation from our government to the men and women of our plant for the part they have played in the war effort. We intend to keep this award flying, to continue the work we have been doing, to do our utmost in bringing closer that day of victory which is so certain."

Major John H. Redmond made a token presentation of the "E" pins to two veteran employes of the company, Edward Gennock and Rex Cox. Said Major Redmond, assistant executive officer of the Ordnance department of Pittsburgh: "Only through co-operation and excellence of work has your plant received the 'E' award. These pins are to be worn by the employes as evidence of that award. You men and women of Vitale Fireworks company are to be congratulated upon your fine work and we know that you will continue it."

For the employes Mr. Cox answered and said: "Upon behalf of the employes I accept this pin proudly. We intend to continue in the same manner we have been doing."

Opens At Seven

The presentation ceremonies opened promptly at 7 o'clock. Billy Hinds of KDKA was the master of ceremonies and opening the program had the audience sing "The Star Spangled Banner" with Howard Price of Pittsburgh leading it. Judge W. Walter Braham was the first speaker.

"We of New Castle are proud of what has been done by the Vitale Fireworks company," said Judge Braham. "This is a proud night for the employes but is no less a proud night for the citizens of this city. Through the courage of the Vitale brothers the company has continued going through bad times and tonight gets official recognition for a job well done." The presentations followed.

For the presentation the army and navy officers with others who took part in the program seated upon the platform of the Cathedral dining room. Two huge blue "V's" flanked the platform with ferns and flowers adding color to the scene. Across the platform was stretched a string of flags of the United Nations. For music, Bernie Armstrong and his orchestra had been brought to New Castle and accompanied the singing and later played for the dance in the ballroom. Howard Price, a tenor of Pittsburgh, directed the three songs sung by the audience, the "Star Spangled Banner", "America" and in closing "God Bless America".

Sumptuous Dinner

Immediately following the presentation the crowd was served with a sumptuous dinner. Spaghetti and meat balls opened the dinner with roast chicken as the entree. Following the dinner the dance was held in the ballroom with Bernie Armstrong's orchestra providing the music and Buzz Adams the vocals.

It was an unusual occasion, the first of its kind in New Castle, but it is to be hoped, not the last. It was a night devoted to honoring a group of men and women who though not serving in armed forces are still in service, providing the materials with which the armed forces work. The presentation was a credit and an honor not alone to the company but to the city of New Castle.

Port wine is named after the town of Oporto, Portugal.

Workers' Absences Costs 300 Planes Monthly, Say WPB

Serious Manpower Problem In All War Plants Seen Emphasized In Aircraft Industry

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—WPB officials declared today that "absenteeism" among workers, which is costing 300 planes monthly, is one of the nation's "most serious" manpower problems, not only in the aircraft industry, but in all war plants.

The seriousness of the problem was emphasized by the disclosure in Los Angeles by Charles E. Wilson, WPA production vice-chairman that absenteeism in the aircraft industry alone is costing such a heavy loss of planes.

Wilson, in the company of army and navy representatives, is currently on an inspection trip through West Coast plane factories to study the industry's problems and work out solutions which will permit a higher production rate.

In Washington, however, officials asserted that the absenteeism issue was acutely serious in shipbuilding, and other war industries.

An analysis of the situation has disclosed the following main reasons for absenteeism:

Failure of the worker to link his job up to actual war production; interruptions in work caused by material shortages; increased earnings which make the need for full-time work less necessary; transportation difficulties and housing problems in overcrowded areas; and wartime complications in shopping.

No Coffee Rations For Professional

Has 25 To 100 Cups During Working Hours, As Official Taster At Wholesale House

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15—Rationing or no, Harry F. Bailey has his coffee every day—between 25 and 100 cups during working hours.

You see, Mr. Bailey is president and official coffee taster at a Pittsburgh wholesale coffee house and it's his job to see that the coffee is blended properly because if it isnt "business won't amount to much."

In normal times, Bailey said he tasted anywhere from 60 to 100 cups of coffee daily but now that there is a shortage, he has had to cut down to between 25 and 100 cups.

In his official capacity, Bailey must be able to detect qualities of body, flavor and acidity that produce the best blend. He accomplishes this by sitting at a revolving table on which are placed scores of different blends. An aide pours steaming hot water on the coffee grounds and Bailey sips contentedly at the beverages with a soup spoon.

On the floor beside the table rests a huge brass cuspidor into which Baily empties the sample—after he notes the flavor.

The coffee taster doesn't think much of President Roosevelt's idea of "stretching" the product by drying and rebrewing the grounds.

"You can't do it," he sadly explains. "When you brew coffee once you take out everything that's in it and there's nothing left but pulp and rancid oils."

The word "dickens" used as an expression of astonishment, irritation or impatience, has no relation whatever to the British novelist, Charles Dickens. It was used by Shakespeare more than two centuries before Dickens was born.

Mother Loses Five Navy Sons In War Action, Same Ship

Mrs. Sullivan Of Iowa To Christen Tugboat At Portland, Oregon

(International News Service)

WATERLOO, Ia., Jan. 15.—"I will see my boys again as I christen the boat," Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, whose five navy sons, all on the same warship, were lost in action, said today.

Mrs.S ullivan, who lives in Waterloo, Ia., will christen a tugboat at Portland, Ore., on February 12.

"It will be very hard, but I know the boys would want me to christen the boat for them," she said.

At the same time it was revealed that Mrs. Sullivan and her husband, a railroad man, had received a letter from a shipmate of their five sons saying four went down with the ship, and the other, George, who had been at a depth charge station, died on a life raft.

The letter was from a Nebraska youth who said he was a special friend of George, 29, the eldest Sullivan.

"It was a sad and pathetic sight to see George looking for his brothers," the shipmate wrote.

"George and I made several liberties together, and we were always kidding about going back to the railroad after the war.

"I don't know whether this sort of letter helps or hurts you, but it's the truth.

"I know you will carry on in the fine navy spirit and I truly hope your boys' lives did not go to no avail.

"I will try to avenge them for you."

The Sullivan boys were George, 29, gunners mate; Francis, 26, coxswain, and Joseph E., 23, Madison A., 22, and Albert L., 20, seamen second class.

Those who fight only to win will get only victory as reward. Those fighting for something definite will boss the post-war world.

State Motor Police Share War Maneuver

Members of the state motor police participated in the "war game" conducted in Pennsylvania yesterday.

The nation supposedly having been "invaded", motor police went into action throughout the state.

Stationed on various highways they stopped motor vehicles, inspected them and also scrutinized and quizzed drivers.

It was a role they will play if an invasion (improbable) ever occurred here.

BING CROSBY BUYS NEW $300,000 HOME

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15 — Bing Crosby, whose 20-room home burned down recently while he was playing golf 30 miles away, today purchased a new home—right across the street from the Los Angeles country club.

A real estate firm revealed that the crooner's new investment represented more than $300,000.

RYAN GIRLS NOW AT AUNT'S HOME

Missionaries' Daughters Tell Interesting Story Of Trip From Africa

Alice and Judith Ryan, daughters of Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Ryan, Christian and Missionary Alliance missionaries to West Africa, are now visiting at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Harvey Heintzelman, in Slippery Rock.

The girls, Alice, 19, and Judith, 16, are known in this city and have relatives and friends here. They arrived in New York last week by trans-Atlantic clipper from Kankan, West Africa.

The Misses Ryan tell an interesting story of their journey which included travel by charcoal-driven trucks, hammocks carried on heads of natives, raft and plane. They were interned in French West Africa for 17 days by the French when the United States troops invaded Africa.

Both the Ryan girls were born in West Africa. Alice will reside with her aunt, while Judith will leave soon for Batesburg, S. C., where she will attend Westervelt school.

Conditions In Britain Told

Jack Jones Tells Defense Council Audience Of Food Rationing, Etc.

MEETING HELD AT METHODIST CHURCH

Those few souls who believe they are being handicapped by food shortages and rationing would have done well to have attended the First Methodist church Thursday night when Jack Jones, of Cardiff, Wales, spoke under the auspices of the Lawrence County Council of Defense. Mr. Jones, who is touring the United States and Canada on a speaking tour for the British people spoke on conditions in Britain today.

"It would be but good policy for a speaker from Britain to speak appreciatively of the aid of the United States to our people" said Mr. Jones, "but it happens to be more than just policy, it is the truth. I cannot hope to convey to you the gratitude of the British people for the foodstuffs and the war materials aid you have sent us but I can tell you that it has saved us from being in a much worse plight than we are."

Rigid Rationing

"Rationing is rigid in Britain. Fats particularly are scarce and the average housewife scarcely ever sees the fats that are so necessary to well rounded cooking, and baking. Hence we seldom see pies or cakes. Meats are rationed until today we are getting about one pound per person per week. Your American canned meats have been of untold value to our people.

"In the winter time we get about one egg a month, with a somewhat larger ration in the summer. Everything is rationed and class or station in life has nothing to do with it. The rationing applies to everybody. But the British people are facing the situation hardily, for we know that out of the minor hardships of the war will come a new day and a freedom worth fighting for.

"Just now you are engaged in practice blackouts and air raid drills and I presume you have the same trouble we had before the actual bombings started. People were more or less complacent, it was difficult to make them believe that some day we would need air raid and fire wardens with the result that when the bombings did come we had a host of untrained volunteers who wanted to do something but who had not been trained.

"I can not urge upon you too strongly the necessity of keeping your people trained in blackout procedure. Perhaps you will never need it, but if the day ever comes when bombs do fall, you will save lives and property by having a corps of trained workers. Keep everlastingly at the blackout practices and learn from our mistakes before bombs came."

Mr. Jones spoke of the fortitude of the "little people" of Britain in the face of terrific bombings. Houses and stores blown out, blocks destroyed by fire, lives snuffed out, but the British people carried on in the face of it. Today the bombings have been reduced to occasional token bombings due to the war aid of the United States and the growing superiority of the United Nations air strength.

D. O. Davies Chairman

City Councilman D. O. Davies, chief of the city's Defense Council was the chairman of the meeting. He called upon Chief Air Raid Warden Frank T. Sargent to speak briefly upon defense work and Mr. Sargent asked that every one find some task to do in civilian defense.

Prior to the opening of the meeting Miss Lillian Sarver played a fifteen minute organlogue. Special music was provided for the meeting by a male chorus directed by David Lewis and David Rees. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Thomas J. Jones, of the First Congregational church and the benediction by Rev. D. L. Ferguson, president of the New Castle Ministerial Association.

The speaker was introduced by Harry T. Jones, president of the National Gymanfa Ganu Association. The meeting was barely over when a practice blackout was announced.

Mr. Jones has a heavy schedule which will carry him well into March. His tour goes from the United States up into Canada, across Canada to British Columbia, down the west coast to Los Angeles and east through the United States.

Before leaving he was given a handsome brooch to carry back to his home as a present from his friends in New Castle to his wife in Cardiff.

The new air freighters are particularly well suited for operation in areas where there are little or no facilities for repairing metal airplanes and where landing fields are small and operating conditions difficult.

AUTHORIZE HOYLAND TO BORROW MONEY

City council has authorized Albert Hoyland, finance director for the city to borrow as much of $100,000, as will be required to pay city bills until sufficient 1943 taxation is received at the treasury. The authority was granted in an ordinance.

CONFISCATE BOND

Police last night arrested one Mike Cavella for alleged disorder in a local hotel. He placed a cash bond of $10 for police court appearance today, failed to enter an appearance and Mayor Charles B. Mayne ordered the bond confiscated.

The Protectorate of Tunisia covers about 27,500 square miles and has a history that goes back more than 2,700 years.

Request Police To Seek Missing Boy

Police throughout Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio today were requested to search for missing Robert Earl Covert, 18, New Castle, R. D. 4. He is supposedly riding a bicycle.

He is described as follows:

Height, 5 feet 11 inches; weight, 130 pounds; complexion, dark; hair and eyes, both dark; wore overall pants, grey zipper jacket, khaki hunting cap and articles.

French Advancing Toward Kairouan

Drive To Southeastward In South Central Tunisia Supported By Lafayette Squadron

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 15.—French forces which captured two strategic hills in South Central Tunisia were reported today to be advancing steadily southeastward toward Kairouan.

The advance of the French ground troops was supported by planes of the newly-formed Lafayette squadron.

A move by the French to advance around Pont Du Fahs, 85 miles southwest of Tunis, was reported held up by a considerable number of heavy German tanks which were sent in to reinforce Italian troops.

(The German radio, according to Reuter's, asserted that a French regiment, supported by tank detachments, had attacked Point Do Fahs for several hours and then withdrew after suffering "bloody losses.")

(It was asserted also by the Nazi that British and American forces are masing for an assault in the Medjez-El-Bab area. Yesterday two British companies attacked Axis positions, it was stated.)

(The Exchange Telegraph company reported a broadcast by the German-operated Paris radio telling of repeated allied attacks in the Medjez-El-Bab area and also to the south "between Nurigon and Kairouan.")

No change was reported in the situation in the northern battle area manned by American and British troops. Last reports from allied headquarters in North Africa said also that air activity was light.

Axis Subs Cease Caribbean Assault

American Counter-Offensive Results In Striking Reduction Of Shipping Losses There

By JOHN R. HENRY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 15—Hounded by an American counter-offensive, Axis submarines today have ceased their recent mass assault against strategic Caribbean shipping lanes.

The sinking of Allied ships in this area has been reduced strikingly within the past few weeks.

There was not a single attack by enemy subs during the latter part of December, indicating that the undersea raiders have found their Caribbean campaign too costly to continue.

Commenting on the withdrawal of Axis subs, Rear Admiral J. B. Oldendorf, temporarily in command of the Caribbean sea frontier, said:

"We can not consider the submarine menace completely eliminated yet.

"It can be said that the subs—for the time being, at least—have retired from the Caribbean area. We have to keep them away."

The navy, because of security reasons, has not disclosed the number of Axis submersibles that have been destroyed. Indications are that the American ships and aircraft have inflicted heavy and damaging blows against the U-boats.

"Never knew all-purpose flour could do such tender baking!" . . . say New Castle Homemakers

Tender blend of choice wheats in Pillsbury's Best helps make baked foods with full, satisfying heartiness, yet wonderfully tender

A delicious way to supplement your meat with flour enriched as your government recommends . . .

PILLSBURY'S MEAT AND APPLE CASSEROLE

A hearty dish, with a different, wide-awake flavor . . . serves six for about 12c apiece

TEMPERATURE: 400° F.
TIME: about 30 minutes

- 2 cups (1 lb.) cubed raw or cooked veal, beef, or pork
- 2 tablespoons fat or drippings
- 3 to 5 medium-sized sweet potatoes, or Irish potatoes
- 5 tablespoons fat or drippings
- 5 tablespoons PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 2½ cups liquid (half milk and half vegetable water)
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon garlic salt
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ½ cup sliced apple

1. Pan-fry meat in two tablespoons of fat until tender. (If meat is already cooked, omit this step.) 2. Cook potatoes until partially done. Dice and measure 2 cups. 3. Combine remaining 3 tablespoons fat and flour over direct heat; blend well. Add liquid gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth. Add seasonings and onions. 4. Alternate layers of meat, potatoes, and apples in 2-qt. casserole or baking dish. Add sauce. 5. Top with following:

The Special Pillsbury Topping

- 1 cup sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder (or 1 teaspoon double-acting)
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- ⅓ cup milk

Notice one thing particularly: This biscuit crust is not only full-bodied and satisfying, it is unusually tender. The full-bodied, sturdy elasticity comes from certain types of fine wheat, the delicate tenderness from others. By balancing one type of wheat with another, we get what we call the "tender blend" of wheats in Pillsbury's Best. See for yourself how this fine all-purpose flour adds this quality of delicate tenderness to all your baking—even to your hearty, substantial loaves of home-made bread!

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder and salt; sift twice. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk all at once; mix only until all flour is dampened. 4. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead a few seconds to smooth surface. 5. Roll out biscuit dough to about ⅜-inch thickness. Cut into six wedge-shaped pieces, with a base of about 2½ inches each. Arrange on casserole, with tips meeting at center, leaving spaces between wedges. Fill spaces between biscuit dough with apple wedges, turned skin side up. 6. Bake in a hot oven until done. 7. Garnish with parsley and green pepper strips.

Anti-Racketeer Bill May Pass House In Month

Supporters Of Hobbs Measure Claim Quick Action; Has New Wartime Rider

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Supporters of the Hobbs anti-racketeering bill today claimed they had completed arrangements to pass the measure in the house within the next 30 days carrying a wartime rider sought by Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Hobbs (D) Ala., is aimed at union interference with interstate commerce by "violence, threats, coercion or intimidation," and sets aside the recent supreme court decision by the then Justice Byrnes who held that congress had not intended that the original 1934 anti-racketeering act apply to labor unions.

Opposed By Unions

Congressional backers of the bill, which is opposed by organized labor, claim that it has been made the first order of business for the house judiciary committee and will be reported forthwith without hearings. They add that they expect similar favorable action from the rules committee and prompt passage by the house not later than mid-February.

The judiciary committee is understood to take the position that the lengthy hearings which it held last year on a similar bill by Hobbs are sufficient. That measure was reported favorably but was held up by the rules committee purportedly because of the nearness of the November elections.

Carries War Section

Hobbs has reintroduced the measure this year, but it carries a new wartime section suggested by Eastman. This section is a restatement of a World War I law and would apply only for the duration of the present conflict.

It provides for severe punishment for anyone who shall during the war "knowingly and willfully, by physical force of intimation, by threats of physical force, obstruct or retard . . . the orderly transportation" of persons, troops, munitions, war supplies or mail, or the make-up, movement or disposition of any carrier, in interstate or foreign commerce.

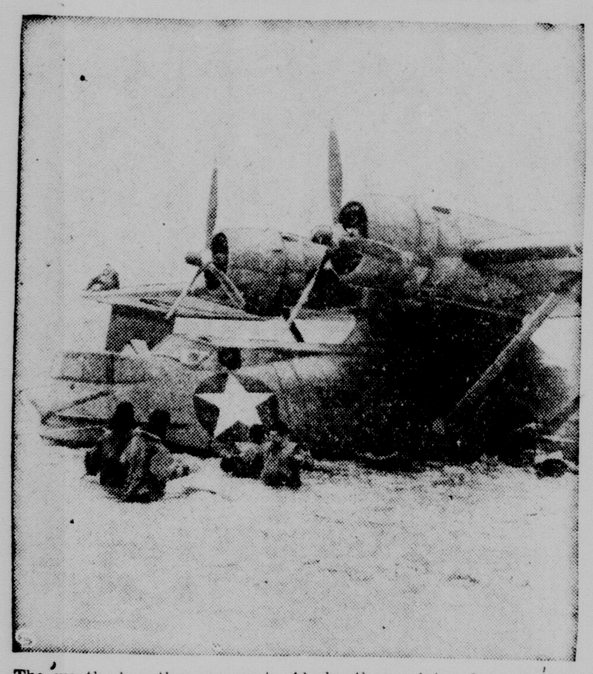

TWO SMALL FIRES

Firemen were called out twice late Thursday for small blazes.

At 4:02 p. m., they were summoned to the plant of the United Engineering Co., but their services were not needed, a small blaze having been extinguished by company employes.

At 4:45 p. m., three companies were called to the Locust street dump, where a shack was on fire.

A LITTLE CHILLY IN ALASKA

The weather's rather snappy in Alaska these wintry days and the members of the ground crew at this Alaskan base don't have to be told about it. They are guiding a Navy PBY patrol plane to shore as they wade in ice-choked water up to their armpits. The PBY's are used for reconnaissance of Jap moves in the Aleutians and occasionally for bombing. —Official U. S. Navy Photo

GIRAUD WITH WEST AFRICA CHIEF

Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, now French high commissioner of North and West Africa, is shown, left above, in one of the best photos taken of him since he succeeded to Admiral Jean Darlan's post after the latter's assassination. With him as they drove to review American troops is Gen. Auguste Nogues, governor of West Africa and former associate of Darlan.

CRONIN ON RED CROSS JOB

Joe Cronin, the manager of the Boston Red Sox, is shown with Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding general of the Hawaiian department, after arrival there to continue his work with the American Red Cross.

The world alcohol is derived from the Arabic particle al and kohl, an impalapable powder used in the East for painting eyebrows.

Wanted Throne?

Assassination of Admiral Jean Darlan in French North Africa was part of a plot by royalists to set up a monarchy in the Allied-occupied French colonies, according to a report by Charles Collingwood, correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Collingwood said that the plan probably was to place the Count of Paris, above, pretender to the French throne, on the throne in North Africa.

Doctor Advises Rest For Executive Brain

Mayo Clinic Specialist Tells Big Businessmen To Slow Down, Take It Easy

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—Big business and industrial executives must slow down, take it easy, stop "flying off the handle," and perhaps take a month's vacation once in a while.

This was the advice of Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo clinic specialist on disorders of the stomach, who spoke on Thursday before several hundred business leaders in Chicago.

He gave particularly stringent warning against outbursts of anger against employes. These, he declared, often are harder on the executive than on the employes.

"There is only a very small percentage of men in the nation," he said, "who have the type of keen brain that can grasp the problems of modern science and industry.

"But what is worse is the fact that even these good brains often are unable to stand for long the strain of constant and heavy use."

Appointment Of Flynn Is Flayed As Unwarranted

Chicago "Daily News" Editorial Sees No Qualifications As Diplomat

DIPLOMATIC SERVICE NO 'DUMPING GROUND'

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Chicago Daily News in an editorial Thursday opposed senate ratification of President Roosevelt's appointment of Edward J. Flynn, former Democratic National Chairman, as United States minister to Australia.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox is part owner of the Daily News and upon his appointment to the cabinet resigned as active publisher of the newspaper.

The editorial said:

"Above all other times, it is vital, in time of war, to appoint as representatives abroad the very best qualified men that can be found for such duties in this vast nation.

"In the career of Edward J. Flynn, we can find nothing, absolutely nothing, to warrant the appointment he has just received from the president to represent the United States in Australia, our valued ally on the Pacific battle front.

Not Experienced

"He is not a diplomat. He has had no foreign experience. He has had no military experience. He has no particular familiarity with Australia or with the problems of the Pacific.

"Americans who represent the United States abroad should be first of all Americans, and only then Republicans or Democrats. Mr Flynn is strictly a partisan. He distrusts Republicans as such, and of course he doesn't like 'the newspapers'—Tammany politicians seldom do. Mr. Flynn is a Tammany man. He has spent all his life in New York Democratic politics. As sheriff of the Bronx, he appointed the gangster 'Dutch' Schultz a deputy. And he has been involved in the usual number of other public scandals that seem to go with Democratic payroll careers in the life of our great sister state in the East.

Bungled Campaign Job

"Mr. Flynn was chosen to replace Mr. Farley as chairman of the Democratic national committee. In this position, he was in charge of the campaign last November. He did not do so well for the Democrats in that campaign. For some time he has been looking for another job. . . .

"For years our consular and diplomatic service suffered under the practice of using it as a lumping ground for political lame ducks and job seekers. This practice is supposed to have been officially ended some 20 years ago. To revert to it at any time would be a step backward. To revert to it now is inexcusable. The senate should refuse to ratify the appointment."

Speakers will include Dr. Lee L. Driver, of Harrisburg, former head of consolidation and transportation in the Department of Education; and Dr. L. H. Beeler, head of the history department at Grove City College.

December Report Of Neighborhod House

Americanization Board Has Meeting At Y. M. C. A. To Hear Committee Reports

At a meeting of the Americanization Board held recently in the Y.M.C.A., Miss Mary Riffer, the president, was in charge. This was a routine business meeting with reports given by the various committees.

Miss Christine Butler gave the December report for the Neighborhood House as follows:

Classes in session through the month: sewing, citizenship, Loyal Temperance Legion, four evangelism classes, prayer group meeting with the South Side Bible class at Central Christian church under the leadership of Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, Bible study class. Boys of the Sabbath school between the ages of 9 to 15 are enjoying activities at the Y.M.C.A. pool, and gym under the direction of R. L. Meermans and Mr. Bliss.

Children of the Neighborhood House were well remembered at Christmas with all classes having Christmas parties. The Sabbath school, Jay Allsworth, superintendent, had for its Christmas program the singing of Christmas hymns by the school; exercise by the primary class, Eleanor Saros, teacher; an illustrated flannelgraph demonstration and reading of the annunciation. Those taking part had all learned the verses, summing up the teachings in John that Christ is God.

The board generously provided candy and popcorn for the 135 members of the school and Victor Potter provided apples. The Willing Workers class of the Second U.P. church presented dolls to several of the small girls of the Sabbath school. Forty-four members of the sewing class were served refreshments at their party, the gift of Mrs. Eleanor Horner Hoagland. Each girl received a necklace from Miss Sarah Snyder of Edenburg, R.D., and the boys were remembered with scrap books.

Fifty-six boys and girls had a good time at the L.T.L. party. Scotland W.C.T.U. and Mrs. Hoagland provided refreshments and prizes for perfect attendance were given to 11 boys and girls.

The four evangelism classes were entertained by a committee from St. John's Luther League. Members of the committee were Miss Ruth Gilbert, Miss Annabel Emery, Miss Monath and Miss Anna Allshouse. They had charge of games, the singing of carols, and serving refreshments.

Mr. Bliss was instrumental in giving all members of the three younger classes of the Sabbath school a gift from Sears-Roebuck Co. through their manager, Charles Bashew. In all, 100 toys and games were given to the Sabbath school classes.

Those who made it possible to have these good times at the Neighborhood House this Christmas season were: the Reading Circle, Mrs. Eleanor Horner Hoagland, Mrs. Fred L. Rentz, Miss Hannah Walker, Mrs. Robert Love, Sears-Roebuck Co., Victor Potter, Willing Workers of Second U.P. church, classes of Miss Thelma Merrilees, Messrs. Shoaf and Eckles of Highland church, John Lockhart class of First U.P. church, Luther League of St. John's Lutheran church, Scotland W.C.T.U. Through these gifts, 171 toys and games have been given to boys and girls of the Neighborhood House.

The Christmas program of the Sabbath school has been given at the Almira Home, Wesleyan Methodist Young People's Society, Sunday evening service of Central Christian church.

Clothing and books have been received from Mrs. Louis Rudesill and Mrs. Ralph McConaghy. Two New Testaments and two Bibles have been given

PANAMANIAN MERCHANT SHIP SURVIVORS LAND

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Seven members of a navy gun crew were among those who lost their lives when a torpedo blew out the bottom of a small Panamanian merchantman in the South Atlantic off Africa in mid-November, two survivors reported on Thursday in Philadelphia.

The number of merchant seamen lost was not definitely known, but was believed to total well over a score.

Only two of the 27 survivors were landed at this port. They are:

William Charles Smith, 18, Denver, Col., and Ray William Smith, 21, of Tarpon Springs, Fla., both members of the navy gun crew.

CORNWALL'S RETREAT

During its retreat to Yorktown on March 28, 1781, the army of Lord Cornwallis marched across what is now the Fort Bragg reservation in North Carolina.

The brick wall surrounding his home, Chartwell, in Kent, England, was built by Winston Churchill himself.

COURT FINISHED

After less than four full days of court the January session of common pleas or civil court is finished and the jurors discharged. All jurors called for next week have been notified they will not be needed.

Two verdicts were received as the session closed. In the case of Frank Servedia versus the County of Lawrence, the jury awarded Mr. Servedia $2317.66 for damages to his farm in Hickory township due to road improvements.

The viewers originally on the case had awarded Mr. Servedia $1400 which he thought insufficient. His farm is on Route 37023 which runs from Eastbrook to Energy and the improvements put the road between his house and barn.

In the case of C. Belle Tichborne versus Bernice A. Shannon the jury awarded the plaintiff $392.56 as a fee for selling the Shannon home. In defense the plaintiff testified that, Miss Tichborne had not sold the house although it had been placed in her hands for sale.

In all, four cases were tried, two in each court room. Two others were settled before trial and nine cases were continued for various reasons. Another term of court will be held in February.

ASKS HOUSE RESORT TO IMPEACHMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Rep Cox (D) Ga., declared in the house on Thursday that "the time has come for the house to protect itself and the country against the scorn, the abuse and the dictatorship of the bureaucrats by resorting to the process of impeachment."

Cox declined to elaborate on his statement when reporters asked to whom he specifically referred.

Dukes Spurt To Nudge Westminster, 38-36

THRILLER SETTLED IN DYING MOMENTS

Blue And White Falls Behind In Closing Minutes After Leading Throughout; Titans' Halftime Lead, 23-16; Blackout Test Halts Bruising Game For Half Hour; Charles Goldblum Tabbed Classiest Performer On Floor; Driving Ban Cuts Crowd; Locals Suffer First Home Loss In Three And A Half Seasons.

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 15.—Exhibiting basketball unequalled in aggressiveness, Westminster's Titans befuddled Duquesne's famous Dukes for more than three periods of a blistering, perpetual motion battle only to drop behind and lose a heart-jerking 38-36 nod, here Thursday night.

In suffering their initial setback on the home boards in three and a half seasons, the blue and white outfought and outplayed the Bluffmen at every turn of the contest that lured about 900 pop-eyed onlookers, most of them students.

Although the tussle was deadlocked at 11-all at the close of hostilities in the first, Westminster sped to a 23-16 edge at intermission time and never once were the Dukes able to get ahead until after the blackout interruption when the Titans' captain, rugged Fred Miller, left the game on four personals.

Reserves Tell Tale

Lack of dependable experienced reserves proved the Titans' undoing. Heddleston, O'Hara, Goldblum, Miller and Ossoff, the starting quint, saw action during most of the tilt. The combination was broken in the fourth when Miller and Ossoff got the thumb as a result of the four personal foul violation.

"Chick" Davies, loaded with classy reserves, substituted freely. This not only settled the players' morale but gave the visiting flippers much needed rest.

In 1:54 of the first, the Titans moved to the front 5-0 on fielders by Miller and O'Hara and a free toss by Goldblum. Scally dented the Dukes' scoring column but Goldblum countered from the circle. Canterna and Goldblum matched deuces as the Titans led, 8-6.

Heddleston parked a one-hander through the cords and Goldblum converted a gift shot, but Paffrath and Canterna planted birdies from under the hoops as the locals led, 11-10. Barry's foul knotted the count seconds before the period closed.

Half Lead 23-16

The rivals battled nip and tuck during most of the second chukker. With 4:23 left, Heddleston scored on a bullet pass from Miller, boosting the Titan margin, 21-16. Goldblum fired to Miller who connected from under the ring with 1:25 to go. That ended the scoring and Westminster dashed off with a 23-16 advantage.

After Barry chopped the deficit with an "fg" and a foul, Goldblum dropped a foul and a long shot as the Titans' lead now reached the 26-19 mark.

The Dukes then pecked away at the Titan lead but Goldblum's two fouls and Heddleston's sensational one-handed heave upped the advantage 31-23, the widest margin enjoyed by the Titans.

Three rapid double plyers, two by Scally from long range and a foul by Canterna, enabled the Dukes to cut the lead 32-31 as the fourth started.

Titans Break Tie

Westminster took the front post again after Canterna's foul had tied the count at 32-all. Don Bennett, who replaced Ossoff, canned an Annie Oakley and Goldblum and Heddleston zipped fielders. With 7:05 left and the Titans leading, 36-32, the air raid test announcement was made.

CLASSIC LASTS 2 HOURS, 16 SEC.

There were so many interruptions during the Duquesne-Titan fray that the classic, a 40-minute actual play affair, lasted two hours and 16 minutes.

The opening interference came when a light high above the southern hoop, probably giving a hint of what to expect later, went out. A pole vault restored the bulb to active duty.

As the third quarter was about to start, the backboard at the northern end of the gym, was loose and it had to be repaired.

With 7:06 left to play, an air raid warden halted play and the lights went out for a half hour.

When the clash was resumed, Don Hettleson, Westminster forward, suffered a cut across the top of his left eye. The injury was treated.

That light above the southern goal again went out. Assistant Coach David Boyd rushed to the balcony and, thanks to the pole vault, fixed the situation.

Aside from this, the game was played in fast time.

At 10:05 the opponents took the floor again. For more than two minutes, neither club could annex a point. Then, Barry stepped to the free toss line and hit two tries. Miller committing his fourth violation.

Canterna was awarded two shots. On his second unsuccessful heave, Paffrath leaped in the air and tipped in the deadlocking fielder as the clock showed only 3:05 left. At the two and half minute mark, Canterna dribbled along the right side of the court, cut in and easily tallied to break the tie. That's how it ended.

Frankie O'Hara did sink a shot

New Wilmington, Wampum Teams At Home Tonight

Section 20 Title Seekers Set To Fire Away For Fourth Time

UNION PERFORMS AT MT. JACKSON

Pre-season favorites should prevail tonight as Section 20 competitors pepper the iron rings for the fourth time.

Thus far, New Wilmington, Bessemer and Wampum, selected to wrestle each other for the coveted bunting, have lived up to expectations. Undefeated in league circles, the trio should move along until next week when New Wilmington ties into Bessemer and Wampum tackles Bessemer.

Tonight, however, the college towners, booked to entertain East Brook, and Wampum, billed for a fracas with Shenango at home, should survive the tests. Bessemer, king of the loop last season, is idle.

Win Eight Straight

The "Greyhounds" lay on the line an eight-game streak amassed at the expense of several noteworthy clubs. In Section 20, the Wilmingtoners have mauled Mt. Jackson, Union and Shenango. The Brookers have lost to Shenango and Bessemer.

Guided by lanky Kenny Cathcart and clever Norm Borowicz, the Eaglesonmen loom as one of the niftiest clubs in the circle. Cathcart, pressing Coy Craine, of Wampum, for the Class B scoring title, has zipped 140 points in eight games.

Craine is expected to lead Wampum's robust quintet to the 11th win in a dozen starts. The colored center, suffering with a sprained ankle, has hoisted 217 points. Guy and Frank Bennett, Sawor and Marich and Scala have as much talent as a professional acrobatic performer.

On the basis of Shenango's showing against New Wilmington Tuesday, Wampum may run into a few impediments but figures to be on top when the lights go out. Frank Adamczyk, gradually is getting to be known as the tops handling rebounds.

Jackson Strong

In th third setto, Mt. Jackson's surprisingly potent cagers gun for their initial victory at the expense of Union Township, at Mt. Jackson. In dropping decisions to New Wilmington and Wampum, the "Mounties" put up a stiff challenge that forced the opposition to display their Sunday brand of ball.

Union Township has a dead-eye Dick in Annarella. In the Wampum contest, the lean west sider couldn't miss from the side alley.

Chalky Meets Montgomery If He Gets Past Pennsylvania Lightweight

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Chalky Wright, former featherweight titleholder from California, relaxed into light training Thursday in preparation for his bout tonight with Joey Peralta of Tamaqua, Pa. The contest with the Pennsylvania lightweight is scheduled to go ten rounds.

Although he reached the top in the featherweight class, Chalky, through his manager, Eddie Walker, announced that henceforth he will devote himself exclusively to fighting lightweights despite his 130 pounds.

The Californian has often stepped out of his class to fight lightweights and even welters in the past, but this is the first time he declared himself to be out of the feather category.

The battle is one which Wright has awaited ever since his defeat of Peralta in 1941. If he wins, the Californian will meet Bob Montgomery, the winner having the opportunity to tackle Beau Jack, recognized as the lightweight titleholder.

Second Section III Contest Sends Locals Against Beaver Falls

Nipped by Aliquippa in the Section III opener last week, New Castle high's passers go into action again tonight in Beaver Falls, facing a highly touted Beaver Falls unit.

Coach Bridenbaugh and Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner have spent the major part of the week endeavoring to smoothen some of the wrinkles observed in the Quip tussle.

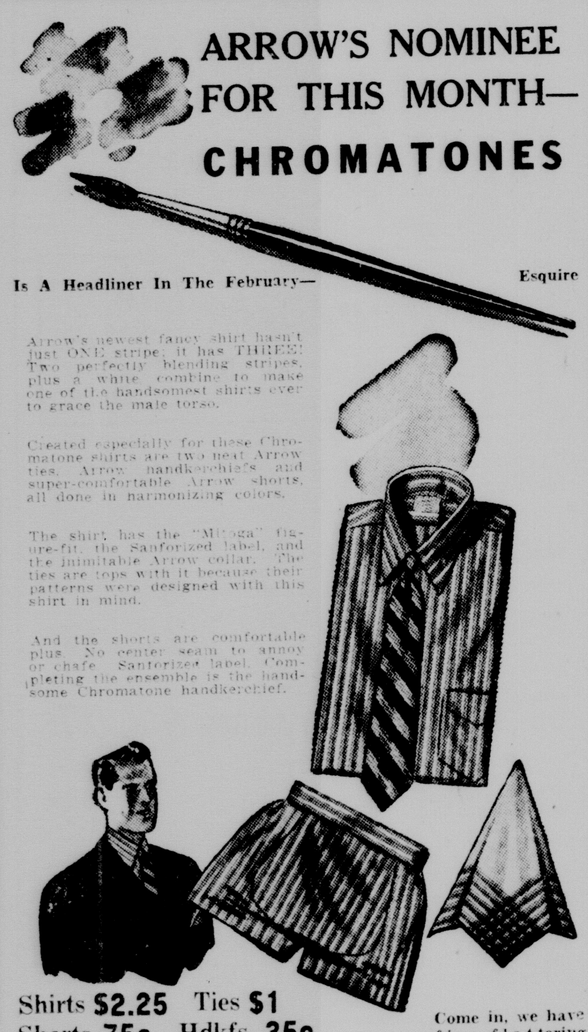

In workouts, the 'Canes have flashed improvement. The defense, which was extremely porous during the opening half of the Quip date, seems more effective; so is the shooting.

The local lineup likely will find Jacobs and Andrews at forward, Burris at center and Razzano and Zubkowsky at guard.

Beaver Falls, listed as one of the pre-season favorites to succeed New Castle as loop champion, was upset by Ellwood City last Friday.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—When Joe DiMaggio enlists in the armed forces baseball's highest-salaried player will be lost for the duration and the New York Yankees will be called upon to fill the biggest void inflicted on the club in a decade. After the crack-up of the club in last year's world series the better baseball minds agreed that the Yankees had lost their zing and rebuilding must be instituted at once lest they swoon into the company of the Senators and Athletics and the rest who nestle down below the equator in the American League standings.

Even then it looked as though the Yankees had themselves a real problem, what with the shortage of talent in these times to be utilized in the rebuilding, but that was merely an overnight headache compared with their dilemma of the moment and for the duration.

Have Two Outfielders

What they will have to do now is first find another DiMaggio and then rebuild from there, filling his spot and those others left by Red Ruffing, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich, Buddy Hassett and possibly others. The Yankees now apparently are committed to starting their spring training at Asbury Park, N. J., with a grand total of the two seasoned outfielders—Charley Keller and Roy Weatherly, late of the Cleveland Indians.

When Joe DiMaggio joins up, as he announced he expected to do shortly, the Yankees will lose the man rated by all as at least the second best centerfielder in baseball history and regarded by many as the best, in all respects, at that position.

I wouldn't know about that. But I have heard some who are supposed to know say that Tris Speaker couldn't do more things than DiMaggio.

Any time you find gents discussing the all-time greatest trio of outfielders that might be brought together, they seem to agree quickly on Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth, then the argument starts over DiMaggio and Speaker.

It doesn't matter whether that debate ever is settled. The point is, the big Yankee must have been among the ultra elite—the best or the second best center fielder, and that's good enough.

Has No Weaknesses

Naturally, in such matters as throwing, running and hitting are duly considered as part of the equipment that makes an outfielder great, one thing offsetting or enhancing another, and whenever they get around to DiMaggio they come up with no great weaknesses and excellence in so many directions that—well, the best they can do is argue whether or not he was the greatest or, perhaps, only second best.

He was a powerful man for the Yankees, coming along as he did at a time when other stars of their previous heyday had begun to go. He had his occasional bad streaks, but he also had more frequent stretches of such brilliance that to some baseball fans it was a thrill even to be in the same park with him. Since 1933, he was among the best, generally the man the other side had to get out.

He had his slumps, and his last season for the second time winced under the roar of unexplained boos nearly all season long. He had domestic difficulties, injuries and much of the bitter with the sweet from first to last.

A Team Man

But he was never any the less a ball player's ball player, a game team-man, a hustler and giving every swing and every try all he had. That's the way he went slump or no slump, and while the boos perplexed him, they never made him outwardly bitter.

He was getting good pay for the work he did, to be sure, but others in approximately the same bracket in the dough department have ranted and railed and quit within themselves. He took it all in stride, and I've an idea he will make the same kind of a soldier or sailor or marine—for $50 a month, instead of $40,000 a season.

All of which may give you a fair idea of the kind of guy the Yankees are going to be without in their rebuilding.

from mid-court but the points were nullified when Goldblum was fouled. In the closing seconds, Westminster hurried at least a dozen shots around the hoops—all in vain.

Goldblum Big Star

Charles Goldblum, veteran center, was high man with 14 points and was, in this ledger, the best performer on the court. His coolness, sensational team work and exhibition under the two rings left very, very little to be desired.

Don Hettleston, East Liverpool freshman, tossed in four two-plyers and three charity tosses to rank second. His play blazed like the Northern Lights. Capt. Fred Miller came up with one of the best games he has played since sporting the blue and white. His departure facilitated the Dukes' uphill fight. Ossoff and O'Hara, hampered by lack of height, nevertheless, did yeoman work.

Smooth "Billy" Canterna and Bob Paffrath, Butler product, sparked the Daviesmen to their seventh conquest in eight starts and left the Bluffmen still at the top of the eastern cage standing.

Westminster tattooed the hoops 58 times, registering a dozen times while the Dukes connected 15 out of 72 attempts.

Heddleston, Titan forward, sustained a cut across the top of his left eye. One stitch was required to close the opening.

Ellwood To Play Ambridge Tonight

Game To Take Place On Ambridge Home Floor — Will Be Hard Game

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 15.—Coach Thurman Croft will take his Ellwood City basketballers to Ambridge high tonight for a sectional game. It will be one of the hardest games of the first half for the locals, who won their first sectional game last week from Beaver Falls.

Ambridge won last week from New Brighton by a 54 to 41 count, and was upset in a surprise game this week with Rochester high, which Ellwood has defeated twice this season.

Ambridge has four varsity players. Leading is Osso, forward, who was the leading Beaver Valley scorer last year, and last week he scored eighteen points against New Brighton. Ulinski, big center, is also one of their best players as is Lenowski, a guard.

Croft will use the same lineup that has played all season. The Reserves will also make the trip and play in the preliminary game. The players will be taken to Ambridge in cars.

Next week, Ellwood plays two home games, Monday with New Brighton and Friday with Aliquippa.

Boro Tax May Continue At Present Levy

Tentative Budget Is Accepted Based On Current Rate Of 9½ Mill

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 15.—The Ellwood Boro tax will probably remain at the present rate of 9½ mills for the year 1943 as Council in an adjourned meeting last night tentatively adopted this year's budget based on the current millage. Final adoption will not take place until March.

The budget was not gone over in detail but it apparently does not contain funds for any new improvements except the sum of $148,000 for the new sewage disposal plant. If the work can be done this year and it is improbable money will be raised in a bond issue.

Council revised their decision of last week to pass up the state convention for the duration and voted to have as many members as possible and one auditor to attend. It will be held in Harrisburg on February 26 and 27. Meneice and Reinheimer voted against the action.

A motion calling for the acceptance of $450 in full payment for a paving lien against the Paglia estate in Second ward was passed.

A letter was read from Pvt John Zirock, Camp Forrest, Tenn., stating that he was past the age of 38 and could be released from the Army if his former job was open. Council agreed to send a notarized statement that he could return to work.

The three-hour session was interrupted for an hour because of the air raid alert and test, to permit various members to get to their civilian defense posts.

Senior Dinner Is Most Successful

Ellwood Graduating Class Has Enjoyable Banquet Event Thursday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 15.—One of the nicest Senior class dinners in the history of Ellwood graduating classes took place last night at the First United Presbyterian church, and if there is a scarcity of good food it was not evident at the sumptuous chicken dinner served the group which included the faculty and members of the Board of Education.

Original decorations centered about a huge V which fell from the ceiling. Below it was the class honor roll which contained the names of four members, Delfo Bertagana, Fulton Elder, Eugene Tanner and Mike Sekulski, now serving in the nation's armed forces.

Charles Bisceglia was the pleasing master of ceremonies and the program included: Piano solo, Myra Majors; toast to senior girls, Jack Forsythe; toast to senior boys, Eveh Joyce Aiken; saxophone solo, Charles Imperatore; toast to faculty, Norma Richards; and response Jerry Newton.

Class donors were: George Paul, Josephine Savicky, Ben Luxenburg, Pat Cahill, Nick Lipsak and Thelma DeTullio. The class presented a great many gifts to faculty members who had aided with social and extra activities of the class during the years, and a fine gift was presented to the class sponsor, William Boyd.

Of much interest to the group was a letter from George Herrold, popular former faculty manager, now serving in the Army Signal Corps.

Dancing followed in the high school gym.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

WAKE UP AMERICA . . . right now, today and yesterday, we have been making history . . . we will make history in the days, weeks and months to come. History that will go down through the ages and make the rest of history look sick. We all want to do everything we possibly can to bring this war to a close . . . but it seems that things are being done that are not necessary . . . If, when orders for this and that come out of Washington, they could be explained truthfully . . . everyone would have a different out-look on the situation. We all sit back and let things go on and on . . . millions of dollars are being spent today on unnecessary items by the government, we are paying the bills. We should be told things and if Washington won't tell these things freely, then we should take means to let them know we are not satisfied. Here we have many thousands of men out on strike each year, now when the smoothness of production should be at its best . . . you talk to your friends but conceal your feelings because you think that maybe someone will think you are not for the all-out war effort . . . The boys giving their lives are depending on the people back home to keep the Nation clean. If we sit back and do not protest against wrong doings . . . we can expect no change in the manner by which we are being lead around by the nose. What would happen if the boys in the Armed Forces went on strike? Answer that. We still have Freedom of Speech and Freedom of Religion . . . let's use them wisely.

* * *

Over in Ohio several bills have been introduced into legislation to bring back the old Eastern Standard Time . . . has any one heard them introducing a bill to reduce their gas coupons from four gallons to three gallons?

* * *

You sat back and said to yourself . . . there's going to be a blackout test one of these days . . . then all at once there it was. And you were right in the midst of it . . . but you reacted in a wonderful manner. You cooperated with the OCD and the test here was a success. Of course you will find a few chaps who are going around today bragging that they had inside information . . . well, those kind are necessary to keep the wind mills going. Keep your head and your head will keep you pleasing in the eyes of your fellow neighbor.

* * *

Don't forget the teaching of the Master . . . and our forefathers who gave of their blood and dear ones so that all men could be considered equal.

Leading Stocks Pad Gains Today

Industrial Average Hits 1942-43 High; Commodities' Tone Firm

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The stock market continued firm today, with the majority of leaders adding moderately to yesterday's gains. The industrial average hit a new 1942-43 high.

Trading was relatively active at the opening, but the pace slowed as light profit-taking filtered in toward midday.

Several key stocks rose to new peaks, including General Electric, Woolworth, Oliver Farm and J. I. Case. The last-named spurted 2 points to 81 on its first two sales.

Allied Chemical, Lima Locomotive and Westinghouse Electric each gained about a point at their best levels.

Elsewhere improvement was of smaller proportions, as in U. S. Steel Bethlehem, Chrysler, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil of N. J., and DuPont.

A few issues slipped behind minus signs. Included were Anaconda, North American Co., Borden and American Tobacco "B."

Commodities were little changed, but displayed a firm tone. Bonds were narrow.

THESE BOYS ARE ONE OF TOJO'S BIGGEST HEADACHES

Here are two views of American Army pilots who are doing heroic work daily in the troubled skies over China. Top picture shows the flyers displaying identification flags, issued by the Chinese government, which bring aid and safe return to their base if the airmen are forced down in China. Lower photo shows pilots streaking for their P-40 planes as an air raid warning sounds at their airdrome, somewhere in China. Note shark's mouths painted on planes. The flyers in the top photo are, left to right, seated,: Lieut. T. J. Clark of Pennsylvania, Lieut. W. A. Smith of Oklahoma, Lieut. R. W. Lucia of New York, Lieut. J. M. Williams of Texas, and Lieut. R. E. Atkinson of West Virginia, and, standing, Capt. C. L. Blair of Michigan.

Nice, but Yes!

If her acting talents match her physical charms there can be no doubt that Esther Williams will go places in the movies. The former Pacific coast swimming champion is making her debut on the screen in a new "Andy Hardy" picture. For the record, she is 5 feet 7 inches tall, has dark-brown hair and hazel eyes.

Nazi Minister on Tractorcycle

Nazi Minister of Armament Albert Speer tries out a new German tractorcycle which is designed to make the way easier for Axis troops in the mud of Russia. The Nazis claim the vehicle is a success. Maybe they mean it facilitates retreats. The photo was received in the U. S. from a neutral source. (Central Press)

AFRICANS SEE "MAN FROM MARS"

African native soldiers stare in amazement at the grotesque figure of a British sailor wearing his full regalia as a fire fighter. The flame-proof suit may be the ticket in fighting a blaze, but it is hardly a suitable garment to wear for a stroll under the tropical sun.

New Rubber Life Raft for U. S. Bombing Planes

This new seven-man rubber life-raft for U. S. bombing planes was recently demonstrated in Washington, D. C. The raft is designed to give aviators that are forced down at sea greater protection and comfort. Improvements are based on experiences of aviators rescued at sea after spending days and even weeks in inflatable boats. Equipment on the new raft includes a square-rigged sail, tarpaulin for protection against sun and rain, police whistle, oars, bailing bucket, sea anchor, radio, box kite antenna, and other supplies. (Central Press)

The Hansom Cab Returns to Broadway

When the O.P.A. banned pleasure-driving along the eastern seaboard it brought many changes including the return of the horse and carriage to New York's Broadway. Attractive Sydney Comitton is shown being assisted out of a hansom by the doorman at the Guild Theatre in New York City. (Central Press)
